NAZIS 75 MILES FROM PARIS IN SWEEP, BERLIN CLAIMS

Adolf Hitler's mighty war machine has crashed the Maginot Line extension on the Franco-Belgian border on a 62-mile wide stretch, Berlin claimed officially today, while the French admitted Nazi forces had penetrated 30 miles into French territory.

Authoritative Berlin sources claimed motorized and mechanized forces had penetrated to within 75 miles of Paris. This puts the French capital within range of big guns, they asserted. German military men confidently predicted the Nazi army would reach Paris in June, with the final French stand on the Marne.

From the Dyle position, protecting Brussels, the Germans claimed, they have forced the Allies to fall back all the way along the line as far as the town of Carignan, southeast of Sedan.

Paris dispatches practically admitted the vast Nazi victory when official announcement revealed that the Nazis were attacking south of Sedan.

Meanwhile the Germans have launched a new smashing offensive against the British positions along the Sambre and Aisne rivers.

Swift German armored units have advanced 30 miles into France to the region north of Rethel, the French high command announced, but a war ministry spokesman said the advance formed a "pocket" and had been surrounded by French mechanized columns supported by planes.

French Claim Nazis in Pocket

It is this region that the swift German armored units which broke through from Sedan have effected the Nazi army's deepest penetration into French soil. Rethel is 30 miles southwest of Sedan, and halfway between that frontier fortress town of Reims.

Although Rethel is some 30 miles inside the French border, it was not immediately clear how much of a penetration of the northern fortifications the German advance represented. The defenses there are a northwestern extension of the main Maginot defenses—sometimes called the little Maginot Line.—Editor's note.

The War Ministry spokesman said fighting south of Sedan was "extremely violent" during the night, with villages changing hands as many as five or six times.

Allies Flanked, Declare Nazis

At the same time it was understood Brussels' immunity from Nazi bomb destruction expires today unless the Belgian capital is stripped of fortifications and cleared of troop concentrations which the high command charges have been discovered there by scouting planes.

Alexander Kirk, American charge d'affaires, was informed by the foreign office of Germany's reasons for no longer regarding Brussels as an open town.

On the Belgian front British fighting men reported they had checked the German drive on Brussels but expected a fresh onslaught soon while the Empire, busy with war's ramifications, strengthened her army in the Near East.

Authorized German sources declared that Allied forces are retreating everywhere on the front between Sedan, France, and Antwerp, Belgium.

Allied connections and communications behind the lines have been bombed systematically by the Stukas (dive-bombers), which also compelled the remaining forts before Liege to surrender, they said.

Fighting doggedly to check the Nazi drive toward the heart of France, Allied ground forces struggled to repair their lines while their planes ranged far and wide, hurling down destruction on German mechanized units.

BATTLE OF BULGES—The German drive into the British-French-Belgian lines of defense seems developing in a series of three bulges. At Louvain (1), taken and retaken yesterday, the Nazis appear to have pushed through, menacing Brussels. Flanking of the Allied defense was threatened by a break at Wavre (8). At Maubeuge (2) another bulge extends into French territory. The third smash is near Rethel (3). Forts at Namur (4) have capitulated, according to the Germans. The battlefront now extends past Sedan to Carignan (5), with the remaining forts at Liege (6), probably given up to the Nazis. The Belgian government has fled to Ostend (7) on the English channel, while German bombers claim attacks on Allied fleet and transport units at Dunkirk (9). A bomber reached the outskirts of Paris at (10).

HUGE LOSSES INFLICTED, NAZIS HALTED, SAYS PARIS

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 17—With its attempted tank onslaught against Paris stemmed by a savage Allied counter-attack that wrought "appalling" German losses, Hitler's army opened a new offensive against British positions along the Sambre and Aisne rivers today.

From military information available in Paris, it appears that the German thrust against the Maginot fortifications now has developed a pocket some 62 miles in length between Maubeuge and Sedan and projecting into French territory at its spearhead some 25 miles.

German penetration to this depth was acknowledged in official announcement that the Nazis now are attacking north of Rethel.

The concerted new attack followed the failure yesterday of German mechanized divisions to break through for a rush to Paris.

Fully a million troops were rushed up on a 75-mile front during the last 48 hours for the present offensive.

Just how many mechanized divisions got through past Sedan on Wednesday night (here 16 words were censored).

It was the presence of these mechanized units which created yesterday's crisis.

Military circles said today that the crisis was "admirably sustained" by the French.

The tanks which formed the vanguard of the German attack were "taken care of," enabling the com-

Maginot Line Cut, Paris in Range of Guns, Berlin Claims

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 17—With the Maginot line punctured at various points, fast-moving German motorized and mechanized units have reached a new front only 75 miles from Paris, placing the French capital within range of the Reich's big guns, according to reliable military information in Berlin today.

An official communique announced penetration of the Maginot line all along a 62-mile front.

Official announcement in Paris that the Nazi drive had penetrated French defenses to a point 30 miles into France tended to bear out Berlin claims of victory along the 62-mile front.—Editor's note.

Supplementary information available in Berlin stated German divisions were driving forward relentlessly everywhere, keeping alert for possible traps and flank attacks and at teh same time endeavoring to prevent the Allies from rallying anywhere for a major counter-offensive.

PLAN 'BATTLE OF PARIS'

It was admitted that every preparation to meet a counter-attack had been made.

The German general staff anticipated a final grand-scale open battle to the east of Paris.

By smashing Anglo-French communications in the rear, German military leaders confidently expect the enemy would be so weakened that it could be beaten quickly and decisively in any concentrated battle.

It is believed in Berlin that the French will try to rally as they did in 1914 around the Marne region.

But this time, competent authorities declared, the situation will be different.

PARIS TO FALL IN JUNE?

Some spokesmen went so far as to predict the fall of Paris during June.

It was pointed out that despite Allied air resistance, German reconnaissance planes have been able to observe all Allied movements, giving Nazi generals a chance to fore-

Belgium's Capital Is Moved to Ostend

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—The Belgian government is now at Ostend, on Belgium's North sea coast, having moved there yesterday from Brussels, Reuter's (British news agency) reported today in an Ostend dispatch.

Today's Belgian war communique admitted Allied withdrawals in Belgium, but said the Belgian army "remains intact and its morale is high."

Gen. Henri Denis, Belfian defense minister, insisted after issuance of the communique that "the situation is reassuring" and warned against nervousness. The communique text follows:

"In relation to the operations by the Allied forces and in close co-operation with those forces, the Belgian forces have moved to new positions calmly and in good order.

"Despite the numerous and difficult combats which many units have had to engage in since the start of hostilities, our army remains intact and its morale is high.

An earlier Belgian communique, dated Ostend, Thursday evening, said:

"North and northeast of Antwerp enemy patrols made contact with our positions.

"Farther to the south some local infantry attacks failed under the fire of our defense.

"In central Belgium violent attacks were delivered against positions occupied by the Allied forces."

ASKS BILLION FOR DEFENSE—His speech broadcast throughout No. America, President Roosevelt addresses joint session of Congress, asks $1,182,000,000 for defense of the United States against European aggression.

CONGRESS SPEEDS BILLION BUDGET FOR U.S. DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Congress, rallying to a call for "millions for defense," slashed through red tape today to get double-quick action on President Roosevelt's $1,182,000,000 program for unprecedented national preparedness in the skies, on the seas and on land.

Both House and Senate manifested, with scattering exceptions, a unanimity that almost approached the pitch of early New Deal days in 1933. Leaders set for themselves the goal of having the President's recommendations voted in two weeks' time.

Mr. Roosevelt's somber references to "ominous days," voiced in his surprise address to Congress yesterday, were still fresh as the legislative wheels began to turn.

There was his emphasis that it was not enough to have formidable defense plans which existed only "on paper," and the accompanying reminder that in the last few months inadequately prepared nations had found "themselves overrun by the enemy."

"Surely," Mr. Roosevelt said, "the developments of the past few weeks have made it clear to all of our citizens that the possibility of attack on vital American zones ought to make it essential that we have the physical, the ready ability to meet those attacks and to prevent them from reaching their objective."

Swinging into action as soon as the President concluded speaking, House and Senate committees pointed to a short cut to start work on a program which included a recommendation for a 50,000-plane air force. Such a sky armada would surpass the reported strength of any foreign belligerent.

The contemplated short cut was to incorporate virtually all the President's emergency plans in the regular army and navy bills now pending for the year beginning July 1.

This would obviate the need for the usual protracted committee

Contempt Citations In Berlandi Probe

Citations for contempt of court, it was learned today by the Boston Evening American, have been issued against four persons, including a Boston police lieutenant and one of Mayor Tobin's secretaries, in the Berlandi handbag theft case.

The four men, for whom summonses were being made out today, are Lieut. Harold Watkins, in charge of the police headquarters' line-up; Angelo V. Berlandi, assistant secretary in the mayor's office; his brother, Alfred Berlandi, and Carmen Giordano.

Angelo Berlandi

Giordano is the North End youth who testified last month that Angelo Berlandi prevailed on him to "take the rap" in a handbag theft case in which Alfred Berlandi received a sentence of three months.

Young Giordano asserted that Angelo told him he could have the case eventually "squashed."

JUDGE IN PARLEY

Lieut. Watkins is alleged to have interceded with Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam of Municipal Court to continue the Berlandi case for 24 hours, after sentence had been pronounced, on the claim that another youth had confessed the handbag crime.

Investigation of the case was ordered by Dist.-Atty. William J. Foley following young Giordano's testimony, and several conferences have been held in the matter between Chief Justice Putnam and Asst. Dist.-Atty. Edward M. Sullivan.

Today they conferred again for nearly an hour and a half, and then B. Harvey Hudson, first assistant clerk of the court, was called in.

Shortly afterward, Sullivan and Hudson left the judge's chambers and went across the courthouse corridor to the offices of Court Clerk William Collins, with whom they conferred.

CITATIONS SIGNED

Sullivan carried with him four blue-covered folders, and later it was learned that Chief Justice Putnam had signed four citations for contempt against the two Berlandis, Lieut. Watkins and Giordano.

Following the conference with Clerk Collins, it was learned, summonses were made out, returnable May 24, calling the four principals into court to explain why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court.

Since the start of the case, Alfred Berlandi has been sentenced to State Prison for three to four years by Judge Frederick W. Fosdick in Middlesex Superior Court for a burglary in Arlington last year, for which he originally was placed on probation.

This sentence supercedes the three months' sentence for the handbag snatching, the shorter term to be served after the prison sentence.

Canadian War Plane Falls; Crew Missing

COBOURG, Ont., May 17 (AP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force plane crashed today in Cooper's swamp, 15 miles north of Cobourg. Hours after the smashup the fate of the crew had not been established. R. C. A. F. headquarters said the plane was from the Trenton, Ont., station.

FALLS 20 FEET — Minerva Nassam, 14-months-old daughter of Mrs. Elias Nassam of South End, is lucky to be alive today after falling 20 feet out of a second-floor window. Her parents rushed her to the City Hospital where it was found she had escaped with slight injuries.

New 'Topatoes' Sans Starch, Fat

NEW YORK, May 17 (INS)—Starchless, non-fattening "topatoes," a boon to dieters who can't keep away from "spuds," were revealed today at the estate of the late Samuel Untermyer in Yonkers.

The new "topatoes" were developed by George H. Chisholm, Untermeyer gardener, by crossing tomato and potato plants.

Chisholm recently produced honeydew melons flavored with cognac, port wine and benedictine by inoculating the melon plants with those liquors.

Welfare Assault Probe Pushed

Promising a complete investigation into the circumstances surrounding the alleged slugging of a Cambridge welfare recipient while a city official stood by, Dist. Atty Robert F. Bradford today ordered immediate interrogation of all witnesses in the case.

While protests mounted against alleged covering up of the case Bradford assigned one of his assistants to prosecute assault and battery charges against Emil Lauziere, Cambridge cemetery worker, accused of slugging John Wilson, father of nine.

PROBE IS PUSHED

Complete control of the investigation has been taken over by Bradford's office under Asst. Dist. Atty. Albert Wunderly.

Arnold Olson, state police detective attached to the district attorney's office, was ordered to bring all witnesses to Wunderly for questioning.

Lauziere will be arraigned on the assault and battery charges in East Cambridge district court May 24.

While the district attorney's office entered the probe, some 400 persons at a mass meeting in Cypress Hall demanded that Mayor John W. Lyons act against two other men allegedly involved.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Wilson, reported in a serious condition at Cambridge City Hospital claimed that one of the unnamed men, a city official, stood by and allegedly condoned a beating which Wilson said he received at the hands of Lauziere.

Wilson, a part time mechanic and welfare recipient, declared the assault was the result of a dispute over an auto repair bill. His name was taken from the welfare rolls after presentation of the repair bill for that particular job, he charged.

Gang Squealer Tells How Racketeer Died

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—A typical fiction underworld figure came to life in Kings County Court and described the murder of a racketeer.

"Sure, I seen Rudnick killed," testified Julie Catalano, who acknowledges he was a bookmaker clerk for Harry (Happy) Malone a hoodlum who, together with Frank (Dasher) Abbandando, is charged with slaying Loan Shark George Rudnick.

"STIFF" ON FLOOR

"When I walked into the garage," Catalano continued, "I seen Harry Malone, Harry Strauss and Abbandando and a stiff on the floor.

"I looked at this guy and I seen it was Whitey Rudnick. The Dasher says to me to get the car, so I get the Buick and I come back.

"The Dasher is dragging the guy by the feet and pulling him into the car. The guy gives out a little cough, so Harry Says—"

Catalano turned to Judge Franklin Taylor and asked if he could use "a dirty word." The judge assented.

"So Harry says, 'The — bim ain't dead yet.'

USES ICE PICK

"So Strauss punches him with the ice pick and I seen blood come out of him.

"Malone says, 'That outghta finish him.' Then the Dasher gets into the car and doubles Whitey's legs. That makes him small. He fits."

Radio Star Welles' Former Wife Elopes

HOLLYWOOD, May 17 (INS)—Mrs. Virginia Nicholson Welles, 23-year-old Chicago socialite and recently divorced wife of Orson Welles of "Men From Mars" radio fame, and Charles Lederer, scenarist, have eloped by airplane.

Originally scheduled to leave on a commercial carrier from the Union airport at Burbank, the couple went to the Los Angeles municipal field instead and chartered a private plane for the flight to Phoenix, Ariz.

Even the decision to be wed today was a change in plans, for they had intended to be married on or about June 1.

The bride-to-be appeared in theatrical productions under the name of Anne Stafford. Married in 1934, Mrs. Welles and the stage, radio and movie producer were divorced early this year when she went to Reno and charged him with extreme mental cruelty.

They have a two-year-old daughter. Apprised of the elopement, Welles said:

"I wish them all the luck in the world—if people are in love they ought to get married right away. Why wait? I'm glad they moved the date up—they'll be happy all the quicker."

Lederer is a nephew of Marion Davies, screen actress.

Runnells Quiz Bares State's Gas Diverted

AUGUSTA, Me., May 17—Investigators in the Runnells case today were probing the alleged diversion of state-owned gasoline.

The development came as Gov. Lewis O. Barrows summoned the Maine legislature in special session Moy 23 to take action on financial problems growing out of the alleged embezzlement by William A. Runnells, former state controller.

A former state official furnished a tip which resulted in the probe of a reported drainage of 2000 gallons of gasoline a month through an employe of one of the state departments, it was said.

State House observers predicted that the special session would adjourn after a brief session, leaving the work of delving into the state's chaotic financial situation to a special committee.

MONEY TANGLES ALLYN PROBERS

WESTFIELD, May 17—The angle of money developed today in the Allyn murder case.

Officials, delving through the countless files of the slain Prof. Lewis B. Allyn, found evidence that the noted chemist had been borrowing money without apparent reason.

At the same time, officials established that seven days before he was shot to death the professor drove alone to a Springfield insurance firm and paid off a $191.35 premium to forestall elapsing of $15,000 in insurance on his life.

The premium was paid by personal check—his last check, and the payment reduced his final bank balance to $35.83.

Another development was the posting by City Council of a $500 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the killer or killers.

$500 MONTHLY INCOME

Officials also announced that complete files pertaining to sale and distribution of all guns of the type believed to have killed the professor were made available to investigators by a Connecticut firm.

The latest money puzzle was being pieced together by Dist. Atty. Thomas F. Moriarty and Capt. John F. Stokes of the state police from slips of paper on which the professor had made notations of loans amounting to thousands of dollars.

Officials were seeking to determine why the professor had to borrow such sums as the notations indicated when he is known to have been receiving $500 a month as fees from several concerns for whom he was a consulting chemist.

Officials said the victim's family was unable to throw any light on the financial picture. But investigators determined in a checkup that his reported income was much more than the expenses for maintaining his laboratory and his home.

FD's Voice, Wrong Talk

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP).—So you thought Labor Day came in September?

Listeners tuned to station WHN yesterday for President Roosevelt's defense message heard the Chief Executive declare flatly that ". . . tomorrow is labor day," and for nearly six minutes listened to a discourse on drought and crop conditions.

Engineers at WHN were speechless. Was this the President's national defense plea?

NBC later said it all happened this way:

A Purdue University professor is doing research on Roosevelt speeches.

For his benefit, recordings of some of the Presidents' old speeches were being played over a private line.

An engineer, hearing the President's voice, but giving little thought to the subject matter, plugged-in Station WHN which in turn went on the air.

Widow Fights Will Leaving Sister All

Judge John A. Costello of Salem probate court has continued to May 31 the case of Mrs. Pauline Merluzzi Phillips, who asks to be declared the widow of the late Herbert F. Phillips, Boston and Lynn fish merchant.

Seeking to share his $20,000 estate, Mrs. Phillips is contesting the will of Phillips, who died Jan 18, leaving his entire estate to his sister, Mrs. Caroline P. McKenzie of Westport, Ct.

Mrs. McKenzie, in a counter motion, asked the court to expunge Mrs. Phillips' name from the action as her brother's widow, claiming they had never been wed.

CONTESTS ACTION

It was to contest this action that Mrs. Phillips appeared yesterday before Judge John A. Costello and offered documentary evidence to prove her marriage.

Chief witness for Mrs. Phillips was Joseph H. Hudson, 83, of Newburyport, who testified he had been a frequent visitor at their Lynn home.

"I took them for man and wife until April 10, 1931," Hudson testified. "Then Phillips asked me if I knew anyone in Maine who could marry them. I took them to my friend, Clarence Hussey in Berwick, and he took them to a justice of the peace, Atty. Clayton Remick, who married them."

Another witness, Gerald Miraldi of the Suffolk county district attorney's office, testified he had also been a visitor to the Phillips home.

"I knew them well, and Phillips always used to call Pauline Mrs. Phillips, or the missus, or the wife, or Maguire," he said.

TRAGIC SUICIDE

The romance of Phillips and the dark-haired Italian girl first came to light following the tragic suicide in 1923 of Isabelle Raymond of the Back Bay, whose engagement to Phillips had been broken off.

The girl had previously told friends of her heartbreak over Phillips' refusal to marry her.

A few months later, Phillips and Miss Merluzzi filed marriage intentions at Boston City Hall. The intentions were later cancelled.

NEW WPA PLAN SEEN DOOMED

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A sweeping proposal by Rep. Woodrum (D.) of Virginia to revamp the federal relief set-up aroused little enthusiasm today in the House which displayed strong sentiment for the President's $975,650,000 WPA bill.

Woodrum, who gave up his usual job of piloting relief appropriations through the chamber, said in debate yesterday that the present program was leading to "national economic disaster" and required an overhauling.

He suggested that the federal government adopt "a more conciliatory attitude toward business" in exchange for a drive by business to expand employment.

WOULD HALVE PROGRAM

In this connection, he advocated that half of the relief money be devoted to a public works program with projects to be built by the lowest bidder. He also would take WPA out of the heavy construction field.

Woodrum advised continuing WPA "on a purely temporary basis and allocate to it funds to operate in localities where there is pressing need for types of projects of a non-construction nature."

The relief bill would let the President spend all the $975,650,000 —if necessary—in the eight months beginning next July 1. The 1941 Congress would decide how much more was needed for the remainder of the fiscal year.

REPORT CRITICISED

Rep. Cannon (D.) of Missouri, who took over Woodrum's floor-manager job, filed a document criticizing a report on the bill by the majority members of an appropriations subcommittee.

N. Y. Hunts Torso Of Slain Man

NEW YORK, May 17 (INS)—The broom of a street cleaner sweeping through the gutter of a lower east side street, today disclosed a dissection murder mystery.

Under a pile of debris, the street cleaner came on the battered head of a man. A few hundred yards down the street, in a wooden box dumped into the doorway of a mattress company, police found the victim's two arms and the parts of two legs.

Missing thus far was the victim's torso.

The slain man was about 55, believed to be of Polish or German extraction. On his upper lip was an unkempt, straggly mustache. His hair was sparse and chestnut in color. On the back of the head was a deep gash, about four inches long.

He had been dead about 12 hours when found, fixing the time of death early last evening.

"JOE BROOKS" LEAVES DEDHAM JAIL
Held as Police Slayer in Quincy Court

One Held as Slayer Of Milton Officer

One arm in a sling because of a police-inflicted bullet wound, Joseph Brooks of Third ave., New York, alleged bandit and slayer of a Milton radio patrolman, pleaded not guilty today in Quincy court to charges of murder and automobile theft.

Two companions with him when captured by Milton police after a 70-mile-an hour chase pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing an automobile.

They are Armand Papineau, 23, of Dwight st., South End, and George Zukauskis, 21 of Athens st., South Boston.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL

On the murder charge, Brooks, former Sing Sing convict, was held without bail by Judge Kenneth Nash, but on the automobile charge all three were held in $5000 bail, double surety, with this bail not furnished.

The brief arraignment over, all three were taken back to Dedham Jail in the Milton police patrol which had brought them from jail to court.

Radio Patrolman Stephen J. Slack, Jr., who dropped Brooks with two bullets after Brooks allegedly had fatally wounded Slack's partner, Officer Edward F. Lee, obtained the complaints against the trio.

DEWING PLANS CASE

Meanwhile Dist.-Atty. Edmund R. Dewing was preparing the case for presentation to the Norfolk County grand jury, which is expected to act before the district court continuance date, set today as May 29.

The Norfolk County prosecutor announced today a special session of the grand jury for Monday, May 27, and said he will seek a murder and car theft indictments against Brooks and theft indictments against his two companions.

That the three were in a stolen car, that they fled Milton police, that at least one of them staged a West End stickup, and that Officer Lee was killed in rounding them up are contentions of the prosecution.

That he met the other two men in South Boston after the robbery and only went for a ride completely unmindful of any wrong doing will be the defense of Zaukauskis.

That he accompanied Brooks to the Chardon st. garage but was unmindful of a $60 robbery and car theft there, is a major point in the defense of Papineau.

FUNERAL MONDAY

Meanwhile, funeral services were scheduled to be held Monday from his home in Thatcher st., Milton, for Officer Lee. A high requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Mary of the Hills Church, Milton, at 9 a. m. with burial in Milton cemetery.

Lee was slain as Brooks and his mate made a mad dash for freedom just as he and the other two prisoners were being taken from a police car at the door of the Milton police station.

One slug fatally injured Lee, and his alleged assailant was dropped with two bullets from the gun of Patrolman Slack, who was guarding the trio.

Britt's Brittle Leg Again Crash Toll

A jinx seems to be pursuing Paul M. Britt, 44, investment counselor and former president of the Needham Board of Trade.

Merry Fahrney Free of Court

NEW YORK, May 17 (INS)—Much-married Merry Fahrney, the Chicago patent medicine heiress, was free again today.

She got her final divorce decree yesterday against Count Oleg Cassini, husband No. 4, and immediately announced she was not interested romantically in any particular man at the present and was just as anxious to get rid of the Count as she was to drop the title of Countess.

"I have no intention of remarrying," declared Merry.

Ex-Mayor Mansfield Back at His Work

Recovered from a recent illness, former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield was attending to his duties today as a practicing attorney.

Friends who had been worried about his reported poor health were glad to see him, brisk as usual, at a City Hall hearing before the appeal board of the city building department.

F. D., Garner Face Final Test

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The final pre-convention test of delegate strength between President Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner was being settled today by Democratic voters in the Oregon primary election.

Tickets pledged to the two men contesting for the Northwest state's 10 convention votes. On the Republican presidential ballot Senator Charles L. McNary was unopposed for "favorite son" designation.

It was the fourth primary battle between forces supporting the President and those favoring nomination of the Texan, who twice has been his running mate.

In Wisconsin, Illinois and California Mr. Roosevelt won easy victories, although three of Wisconsin's 24 delegate votes went to Garner.

The President, still silent on the third term question, was entered in today's primary by the Oregon Commonwealth Federation, a self-styled "Liberal" Democratic organization. The voting came a day after he won the eight convention votes of adjacent Idaho in a state convention.

Michigan's Republican convention yesterday endorsed Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg for the party's presidential nomination.

Only one of the 38 delegates chosen was an avowed backer of Thomas E. Dewey, like Vandenberg a native son of the state. The Dewey forces, however, predicted that the delegation eventually would swing to the New York district attorney.

A week-end meeting between Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Alf. M. Landon, the 1936 Republican presidential candidate, attracted attention in political circles.

Taft, contender for this year's nomination, will speak in Topeka, Kans., tomorrow night. Landon will introduce him at a party rally.

Taft's campaign workers claimed last night that the West Virginia Republican primary had shown a preference for convention delegates favorable to his candidacy.

The Boston Sunday Advertiser — Boston Evening American

TYPICAL AMERICAN FAMILY IN MASSACHUSETTS CONTEST

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY OR TOWN _____

NO. OF CHILDREN _____

BOYS _____ GIRLS _____

RECENT PHOTO OR SNAPSHOT OF ENTRANT ATTACHED HERE NOT NECESSARY THIS STEP

Just what is your idea of the Typical American Family in Massachusetts?

Does Father remember Mother on her birthday? Does she insist on getting up and fixing breakfast for him? Does he wash the dishes? And is he always thinking up surprises for the children?

In short, are they on an extended honeymoon?

We'll, a full week's holiday at the New York World's Fair of 1940 is in store for some lucky family.

It's a contest, sponsored by the Boston Evening American Sunday Advertiser, in cooperation with the World's Fair management, and it's open to all American citizens residing in Massachusetts.

Not only will transportation, admission, entertainment, housing and food be free, but there will be free maid service for the group selected as the Typical American Family in Massachusetts.

At the Fair, the winning Massachusetts family will live in one of the two newly completed FHA model houses, which has been completely furnished by Sears Roebuck & Co. This trip also will completely outfit the winning family for the trip.

EASY TO COMPETE

Here's all you have to do:

Send in your family entry right now—together with a photograph of the family and a letter of not more than 300 words, explaining why you believe the family is qualified to be chosen the Typical American Family in Massachusetts.

For the winning family everything is free.

In addition to the first prize, there will be four other prizes for the next four families chosen by the judges.

RULES ARE SIMPLE

The simple rules for this contest—there is nothing to buy—are published elsewhere in these columns, together with the official entry form.

The judges are Gov. Saltonstall, chairman; State Sen. Angier L. Goodwin, chairman of the special committee on participation in the New York World's Fair of 1940; Mrs. John H. Kimball of Boston, former president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the women's advisory committee on participation in the 1940 Fair; Mrs. Bradley Baldwin Gilman, president of Women's Overseas League; and Capt. Francis Adams, naval secretary of the Navy.

Here Are Family Contest Rules

These are the rules governing the Typical American Family in Massachusetts Contest:

1—The Typical American Family Competition conducted by the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Boston Evening American, in cooperation with the New York World's Fair of 1940, is open only to citizens of the United States residing in Massachusetts.

2—The name and address of each family, with the number of children, boys and girls, must be submitted on the official entry form, together with a letter of not more than 300 words describing the family and explaining why it should be selected as the Typical American Family in Massachusetts. No photographs will be returned.

3—Entries will NOT be judged by the literary style or excellence of the letters submitted, but strictly by on the qualifications and characteristics of the family.

4—A recent photograph or clear snapshot of the family must accompany the entry.

5—The entry of a candidate family may be submitted by a relative or friend, or by a member of the family.

6—Entries close at midnight, June 15, at midnight. The completed form must be mailed or delivered to the Advertiser-American Typical American Family Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass., before that time.

7—The selection of the Typical American Family will be made by a committee of distinguished Massachusetts men and women well qualified to establish the proper criteria of a Typical American Family, and the committee's decision will be final.

8—The parents and two children of the Typical Family selected, the eldest child to be at least 14 years old, will be transported from Boston to the New York World's Fair and return by automobile, with all meals and hotel expenses paid. They will be entertained at the Fair for one week, beginning July 22, without any cost whatever to themselves. The family, while at the Fair, will live for one week in a completely furnished house built inside the Fair Grounds in accordance with the standards set up for home construction by the Federal Housing Administration. The house accommodates four persons, and for any reason only four members of the family selected may go to the Fair. The family will have complete freedom of action as to what they want to do and see. They will, in fact, live each day as they would during any normal holiday period.

9—It is understood that the winning family will give permission for [illegible] graphs and stories of their [illegible]

10—This competition is not open to employes of the Boston Sunday Advertiser-Boston Evening American, nor of any [illegible] advertising media.

VANDERBILT MANSION SOLD

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP).—Fifth ave. — once the most fashionable residential area in America—has marked its final surrender to trade.

The seventh and last of the Vanderbilt mansions—home of Brig.-Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, at Fifth ave. and 51st st.—has been sold.

The Astor estate purchased the three-story, brownstone dwelling yesterday and Gen. Vanderbilt, with his costly furnishings, tapestries and art treasures, will move out at the end of the year.

The mansion will be replaced by a commercial building, possibly a bank or business house.

Purchase price of the imposing dwelling, across the street from St. Patrick's Cathedral and Rockefeller Center, was not announced. The building is assessed for $100,000, and the land on which it stands, $2,350,000.

Dwarfed by imposing commercial structures, the mansion, with its $3,000 bronze doors and great art gallery, was the avenue's last futile protest against the expansion of trade north of 51st st.

Built in 1880 by William H. Vanderbilt, the house once was occupied at a reported annual rental of $50,000, by Henry C. Frick.

In 1916, Brig.-Gen. Vanderbilt was reported to have spent $500,000 in remodeling and refurnishing the interior.

FLAG OUSTER FACES COURT TEST

Discharged by the Quincy school committee for refusing to salute the flag, Miss Elizabeth M. Graham, Quincy school teacher, today indicated she would attempt a test of the flag salute law in court.

The parents of Calvin D. Wentworth, a third grade pupil, who was expelled by the committee, likewise said they might take their son's case to court to bring about his reinstatement.

Miss Graham contended that the law is unconsitutional.

A petition signed by 200 citizens urged the committee to postpone action on both cases until the United States Supreme Court reviewed a similiar case in Pennsylvania.

The committee, however, decided to postpone action no longer.

Both the teacher and the pupil are members of Jehovah's Witnesses. They declined to salute the flag because they believed it contrary to their religious beliefs.

Miss Graham was suspended March 6 after school officials learned she had withdrawn to the back of the room with her hands at her side while her pupils went through the daily patriotic ceremony.

The boy, 10-year-old son of Mrs. Ebba Wentworth, was barred from his classroom at the Quincy school last month when he declined to pledge allegiance to the flag.

Friends Await Word Of Jump's Nazi Fate

Relatives and friends in Greater Boston today anxiously awaited word of the fate of Lawrence A. Jump of Newton, a Dartmouth graduate, reported missing on the European battlefield.

According to press dispatches Jump's inseparable companion, Thomas Esten, 25, of Stoughton was rescued during a bombing by Nazi planes while the two were on their first mission of mercy as members of the American Volunteer French Ambulance Corps.

Jump has not been heard of since.

Nazi planes hovered over an ambulance train carrying refugees from the Ardennes Forest sector, bombed it and directed artillery fire at it.

His ambulance was last seen in flames, but there was no indication of whether he had been killed in the direct hit which fired it, or whether he escaped or was captured by hun-pressing Nazi infantry.

Esten reached temporary safety through a dutch forest with a unit of the Friends of France under direction of Miss Anne Morgan, sister of J. P. Morgan. They were reported in a convent in North France yesterday.

FLEE TO WOODS

Miss Morgan reported by phone from a northern French village that she had headed 13 ambulances and 20 cars into the sector to rescue civilians caught between the opposing artillery fire of the warring armies. They were attacked and bombed she said by Nazi planes until they sought shelter in the deep woods.

Germans, she reported captured one ambulance after which French warplanes bombed it, but the Esten, Louis Wolsky and Jump escaped.

Esten's ambulance was attacked by shrapnel she reported, as were two other vehicles driven by Miss Anne Weaver, Yale and Paul Brooks, Williams graduate of Colorado University, and a former Massachusetts Volunteer who had more than 40 shrapnel holes.

Col. James V. Sparks, head of the ambulance corps, in Paris on a telephone to James W. Lawson, director of the Young Women's Christian Ambulance Corps in Boston, said:

"German plane directed artillery fire at these ambulances. No accident. Deliberate attempt to destroy them."

Miss Morgan in her report to Paris stated that the ambulances were plainly marked with the insignia of the Red Cross, which Germans ignored, both in their aerial bombardment, and in the infantry attack in which the wounded civilians were captured.

CORPS FORCED TO QUIT

The bombardment she said had forced her corps to give up their mercy work and flee to a chateau which is still on the front lines. French authorities urged her to attempt return to Paris.

The missing driver, Jump, was the son of the late Rev. Herbert A. Jump and [illegible] d in Newton, spending his summers at Sea Meadows, Nantucket. The elder Jump held pastorates in Manchester, N. H., Newton and Union Congregational Church, Columbus ave., and won fame as a labor minister by donning overalls to take a job in Fall River shipyards to work for better shop conditions.

Jump's mother died last fall in Cambridge. He has a brother, Ellis, who won fame a few years ago by carrying an injured girl four miles down Mt. Madison in New Hampshire, and a sister, Cynthia, wife of Prof. Hurl Willet of Lincoln.

He enlisted only a short while ago with the volunteers in Paris.

Esten whom he met at Yenching-et, where the latter also spent his summers, enlisted with him. Both young men were in Paris at the outbreak of hostilities.

Esten had gone there with his bride, Barbara Blackburn of Dedham, to complete his art education. Following his graduation from the Museum School in Boston, he had taken his bride to Spain, but was interrupted in art studies there by the Spanish War.

Bixby Report Spikes Reformer's Charges

Gov. Saltonstall today studied a report which refuted charges leveled against two commissioners of the State Civil Service Commission by Miss Marion C. Nichols of Beacon Hill, civil service reformer.

Miss Nichols had accused Commissioners Mrs. Mary Livermore Barrows of Melrose and Philip V. Erard of Springfield of collecting excessive expense accounts.

In a report to Gov. Saltonstall, Chairman William H. Bixby of the Civil Service Commission said the complaint was a "very poor reward indeed for the untiring service which Mrs. Barrows and Mr. Erard have rendered the Commonwealth.

Miss Nichols complained to the Governor's office that Mrs. Barrows and Mr. Erard had been using their own automobiles and charging 4½ to 6 cents a mile, although rule 6 of expense vouchers specified the cheapest form of transportation should be used except in special instances.

BIXBY EXPLAINS

Chairman Bixby explained that Erard was compelled to attend meetings in excess of the number for which members of the commission are entitled to reimbursement, but in attending so many meetings at irregular times, and often at short notice, he has found it more convenient to use his own car. Erard has not used his car since last November.

Specific mention has been made in the papers of charges for hotels and meals, Chairman Bixby said.

"Although it would be a proper charge, Mr. Erard has never put in a voucher for Pullman accommodation and each month has taken advantage of the opportunity to stay with friends, so that the expense voucher carried the notation, 'No hotel charge—stayed with friends.'

"You may be aware that some time before Mrs. Barrows' appointment as commissioner, she had a serious accident which made it very difficult for her to get about and particularly to climb the steps of a train. It was arranged a year ago that she should charge the standard mileage rate for transportation from her home in Melrose to the State House, and she continued that practice even when she has used the train, because it is out of the question for her to get from the train to her home and to the State House without using taxis. This has cost her a great deal more than the mileage allowance, whichever way she has traveled."

K. of C. Chapter Plans Breakfast

Members of the Robert Fulton K. of C. will assemble at a communion breakfast after attending mass Sunday at 9 a. m. at St. Peter's Church, Dorchester. Rev. Richard J. Haberlin will be celebrant.

Breakfast will be served at the Copley Square Hotel. Toastmaster William F. Ryan will introduce such notable speakers as the Rev. Leo N. O'Day, director of St. Peter's Holy Name; Robert Quinn, president of the Boston Bees, and Francis J. Russell, scholar and lecturer.

Cornerstone Laid For Animal Home

Two dogs—appropriately assisted in the laying of the cornerstone of the new Animal Rescue League structure at 366 Albany st., South End.

Two members of the board of directors, Misses Anita and Marion Haris, hit upon the novel idea, calling on each of their canine pets to help press a stone into position.

ASK AND YE SHALL RECEIVE--DIVORCE

After testifying that her husband kept her awake nights by reading the Bible to her in bed, an attractive Belmont brunette today held a divorce by order of Middlesex probate court.

Judge Arthur E. Beane granted the decree to Mrs. Helen R. Johnson of Moraine st., Belmont, on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

Her husband, Guy W. Johnson of Boston, spent all his money on religious books and allowed her only $1 weekly, Mrs. Johnson testified.

Appearing in court attired in a colorful spring outfit, topped by a large white picture hat, the plaintiff averred that her spouse talked constantly about religion and warned her:

"It would be just too bad for you if you don't comply with my religion."

DESERTION CHARGED

Once, when she complained that she couldn't exist on $1 a week and asked for more money her husband first threatened her, then struck her and left the house, the plaintiff testified.

That was on Aug. 25, 1938, less than eight months after their wedding, and the same day she went home to mother, she said.

Thomas J. Carney of Concord Turnpike, Somerville, was awarded a decree from Catherine S. N. Carney on desertion charges after testifying she left home less than two months after their marriage in 1920 and he never saw her again. They were living in Winthrop at the time, Carney said.

A wife who cried all during her testimony, Mrs. Eleanor Hope French of Elm st., Stoneham, won a divorce from Walter R. French of Somerville on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, and custody of a daughter, Joan Louise, 5.

Arson Squad Probes Fire

Arson experts today investigated a two-alarm fire in Wilton st., Allston, from which 77-year-old Mrs. Mary Noonan, sole occupant, was rescued by firemen.

Only casualty was Ladderman James Kelley, one of the two firemen who carried the woman from a third floor window. He suffered slight burns about the face.

The fire was believed to have started in the basement and, working upwards through the rear stairway, caused damage estimated at $500.

Boy Auto Victim, 4, Is Reported 'Fair'

The condition of John M. Doyle 4, of Oakwood ave., Lynn, felled by an automobile in front of his home, was reported "fair" at Lynn Hospital today.

The boy suffered a fractured skull. His name was placed on the danger list.

Sun Lamp Rays Bring Bloom to Prize Flower

ATLANTA, Ga., May 17 (AP))—Mrs. Sam McDaniel planned to show a particular peony bloom in Atlanta's flower show, but cold weather kept the flowers from opening.

On the eve of the judging, husband Sam came to the rescue. He focused his sun lamp on the tardy plant, sat up nearly all night, blowing gently on the bud.

Came dawn and an opening bloom. Came the show and a prize for Mrs. McDaniel.

How 9 U.S. Ambulances Fled Bombs

PARIS, May 17 (AP)—Three American Ambulance Corps drivers reached Paris early today with sick and wounded French civilians from bomb-battered northern France.

The Americans, part of the unit which was forced to abandon its rescue work because of the intensity of Napi air attacks, were Sam Pierce of Dallas, Tex.; Phil Coniglio of Lincoln, Neb.; and Julius Berger of New York City.

Pierce said nine of the ten ambulances which originally set out with Miss Anne Morgan's Friends of France Corps were driven deep into the woods without lights to escape detection by German planes.

He said they had a full load, "most of them wounded," under the care of one of Miss Morgan's nurses.

"We had already lost one of our ambulances, although the driver, Louis Wehrley, had escaped," Pierce said. "We didn't dare leave the woods until after the planes had disappeared, which was about two hours later. Later we set up a makeshift camp kitchen, fixed a meal and ate."

Pierce's uniform had been badly torn and he was wearing an ordinary blue jacket, which caused him to be held for questioning temporarily by French officers after a well-meaning civilian reported him as a possible Nazi parachute trooper.

Miss Morgan returne dto Paris with additional drivers and nurses and with all but the one ambulance which was captured by the Germans.

German Warplanes Reported Off Britain

RICH SWISS RUSH GOLD TO U. S.

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Tiny Switzerland, famed as a citadel of wealth as well as of democracy, has shifted much of her movable riches out of the grasp of possible Nazi conquest to the United States, Wall Street sources said today.

The little republic nestled in the mountains south of Germany, with a population of 4,200,000, is rated in financial circles as probably the wealthiest nation in the world in proportion to size.

Switzerland, by latest official figures, had more than $500,000,000 in monetary gold, held American investments totaling about $1,115,000,000, including $350,000,000 in common and preferred stocks.

GOLD IN FLIGHT

At least one-fourth of the gold and large amounts of securities were said to have been shipped to this country for safe keeping.

Swiss financial institutions have increased their Wall Street branch and connections to follow the golden trek from the little countries of Europe.

Bankers suggested the bulk of the remaining riches either had been transferred to Paris and London or was ready to leave on the first roar of a gun to join uncounted billions of refugee capital in London, Paris and New York.

REFUGEES WEALTH

A great deal of Swiss mobile wealth represented by gold and securities is attributed to foreign ownership, either for account of refugees and resident foreigners in Switzerland or sent to the mountain haven in recent years for temporary stay.

In the early stages of the 1929-33 international crisis, foreign money poured into Switzerland.

But the foundation of the riches is the habit of thrift long instilled in the sturdy farmers and factory workers who turn out the cheese, watches, dye stuffs and precision machinery prized in the export markets.

These products largely accounted for the $30,617,000 in goods Switzerland sold to the United States last year. Exports to Switzerland, mostly cotton, grains, tobacco, motor and oil products, totaled $18,-669,000.

NAZIS IN POCKET, PARIS SAYS

manding generals in the field to report to Paris that the situation was under control and the threat to Paris disposed of, for the time being at least.

Today's attack was centered against positions north of the Sambre and between that river and the town of Rethel on the Aisne, 20 miles southeast of Sedan.

That, said the spokesman, was the latest news flashed to Paris from the battle front.

He disclosed that a pocket has been formed which is bounded by the Sambre in the north, Sedan in the east and the area north of Rethel in the south.

The spokesman explained:

"The first thing to do when a pocket is formed is to check its growth."

(Editor's Note: Berlin announced that Allied forces from Antwerp to Sedan were in retreat after being routed at many points. German spokesman called yesterday "the most catastrophic day the Allies ever experienced."')

"The next thing," said the French spokesman, "is to counter-attack or take up new positions.

"That is up to the general staff to decide and I know nothing about it.

"Our strategic and tactical position is ——" (Here eight words were censored.)

TAKE, RETAKE AREAS

The fighting south of Sedan overnight has been terrific without any appreciable change of position, advices to Paris revealed.

Villages and woods have been taken and retaken as many as seven or eight times.

The world has no idea as yet of the intensity of the fighting during the past few days. A French staff officer told me that nothing during the World War or at any time in history could compare with the fury and intensity of the battles around Sedan and along the Meuse river.

German losses were described as appalling.

According to French sources, it has been apparent from the moment the armies became locked in combat that the Germans were willing to pay any price in blood and machines to make a break through and attempt to win the war in a few weeks.

NAZIS USE TANK BRIDGE

One example of German profligacy with war material was cited in an unconfirmed story I heard from a high source this morning, explaining how the Germans put heavy tanks across the Meuse.

My informant said the Germans picked shallow places in the river and deliberately plunged the tanks into the water. Then, it was claimed, the Germans ran other tanks over the top of the submerged equipment.

The Germans also, it was stated, have hurled their air fleet aloft taking machine gunners from the by the thousand in many cases army with virtually no flying experience to complement the aerial crews.

I have heard good sources estimate that the Germans have had five to six thousand planes in action, compared to fewer than the one thousand they used in Poland.

The Germans have lost around 600 planes so far, according to French sources.

FORMER U. S. SHIP BOMBED

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—The Belgian liner Ville de Bruges, formerly the United States liner President Harding, has been beached following a German bombing attack on Tuesday, members of the crew disclosed on their arrival today in London.

They said the 13,869-ton liner was heading out from Antwerp with 64 passengers, mostly women, when an aerial torpedo burst and killed four members of the crew.

Every passenger was landed safely, according to James Gibson, 35-year-old Montreal boatswain. He said they made shore about 200 yards away in seven boats.

The four crewmen killed were two Canadians and two Belgians. The crew of 115 included 62 Canadians.

The vessel was one of eight sold to the Societe Maritime Anversoise, a Belgian company, by the United States Lines soon after American neutrality regulations barred American ships from most European waters.

While still under the American flag as the President Harding she sailed from England last November 15 with American refugees from the British Isles.

Norway Calls New Men to Service

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—All Norwegians abroad between the ages of 21 and 45 have been ordered by official proclamation to register for military service, Reuters, British news agency, was informed today by the Norwegian Telegraph Agency, Stockholm.

Men in Norway between the ages of 21 and 25 were instructed to proceed to northern districts for immediate service.

GEN. BLOOD DEAD AT 97

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—Gen Sir Bindon Blood, 97, often called "the father of the British army," was dead today in London.

Selling Hits Share Leaders

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Selling hit the stock market today after an attempt at the opening to extend yesterday's late rally met with only faint-hearted response.

In dealings which put the ticker tape behind floor dealings for a while, losses running to $2 a share or more predominated near midday.

Aircrafts, strong at the start, were among the first to back away, along with steels and motors. The pace later slowed.

Among issues slipping after the initial upswing were Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Glenn Martin, Lockheed, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Loft, Santa Fe, Curtiss-Wright, Anaconda, and Eastman Kodak.

Traders were bullish on the billion-dollar defense expansion program, but doubts regarding outcome of the battle of the "Little Maginot" line tended to cool buying ardor.

U.S. WARNS CITIZENS IN BRITAIN

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—The United States embassy, on instructions from Washington, today advised American citizens in Great Britain to return home if possible. The United States is sending American ships to meet the mon the west coast of Ireland.

Many Americans called at the embassy today, seeking advice about ways of getting out of Britain and securing passage for home.

The embassy estimates there still are about 3500 Americans in the United Kingdom, more than half of them in the London area.

(The State Department said the total in Great Britain and northern Ireland, as of Jan. 1, was more than 7000.)

An authoritative American source said there would be no compulsion. He added there was no indication what ships would be used nor when they would be available.

He said Americans compelled to remain by business and other reasons would be advised to leave congested areas for safer parts of Britain, but that no specific areas would be indicated.

Aussies in Egypt, Bound for Palestine

LONDON, May 17 (INS)—The second detachment of the second Australian imperial force is disembarking in Egypt and proceeding to specified areas in Palestine, it was announced officially today.

(Editor's note: A British radio broadcast picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York reported that "the Allied fleet, which has been on maneuvers, returned to Alexandria.")

Nazis Seen Massing For Rumania Smash

BUDAPEST, May 17 (AP)—Germany was reported today to be massing whole divisions of blitz troops—mechanized and motorized forces—on the Slovak frontier of Hungary and pointed at Rumania, 140 miles away.

Unconfirmed reports from Vienna, credited indirectly to German army officers there, said that all but the date had been set for a lightning march through Hungary.

The reports plunged the Balkans into new fear. Military observers expressed belief that Germany might strike into the Rumanian oil fields to keep her war machine in the west from running out of gas.

Rumania is credited with an armed force of 1,600,000 men and holds a guarantee of British-French aid if she has to fight for her independence.

Hungary, shying from any Allied promises, was reported recently to have told Allied representatives that she would decide on what to do about any right-of-way for German troops when the need arose.

STREAM OF TROOPS

A steady stream of troop trains and columns of high speed fighting equipment, replete with artillery, tanks, armored cars, field kitchens and truck trains was reported, by way of Bratislava, to be moving into eastern Slovakia.

Slovakia, which gained a measure of independence under German military protection in the breakup of Czechoslovakia, lies across the narrower eastern point of Hungary from northwestern Rumania—the Transylvania section, which Hungary lost in the World War and would like to get back.

Still other German forces were reported concentrated in the Zistersdorf region, north of Vienna, at the western tip of Slovakia.

The movements in eastern Slovakia were said to have started Monday.

WARPLANES POISED

Hundreds of Nazi warplanes were said to be poised at Vienna and Slovak airports, ready to render the almost traditional "softening" action of the blitzkrieg technique.

Two days before the reported troop movement into eastern Slovakia, oil refineries in the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate (another part of dismembered Czechoslovakia) were said to have been advised to transfer all their stocks to warehouses and to work night and day to "meet an urgent demand."

For a week observers at Budapest and elsewhere along the Danube have noted an absence of German barge traffic downriver from Vienna, and some military quarters here said that the craft were being fitted to carry heavy artillery, munitions and supplies toward Rumania.

Nazis Claim 90,000 Warship Tons Sunk

BERLIN, May 17 (AP)—Authorized German quarters estimated enemy sea losses at between 90,000 and 100,000 tons of warships, transports and auxiliary vessels.

In addition to two destroyers and three others mentioned in a communique as sunk, DNB, the official news agency, reported one submarine sunk in the North Sea and a 32,000-ton transport and another of 15,000 tons sunk off the Dutch coast.

Aussies Swell Allied Suez Army

CAIRO, Egypt, May 17 (AP)—Great Britain's army in the Near East was bolstered today by arrival of a big convoy of Australians.

Many of them sons of men who fought at Gallipoli in the World War, they formed the second contingent of Australian troops sent overseas since the war began.

Some of the Australians traveled in a big liner which was painted a drab grey. Others came in troopships which have been moving imperial regiments.

Bronzed by their 9000 mile voyage, the men looked fit and well as they crowded the decks of the transports. All are volunteers, of splendid physique, and they have had at least six months' training in handling modern weapons.

The first Australian troops landed here two months ago and now are part of the Allied forces assembled to guard the lower Nile valley.

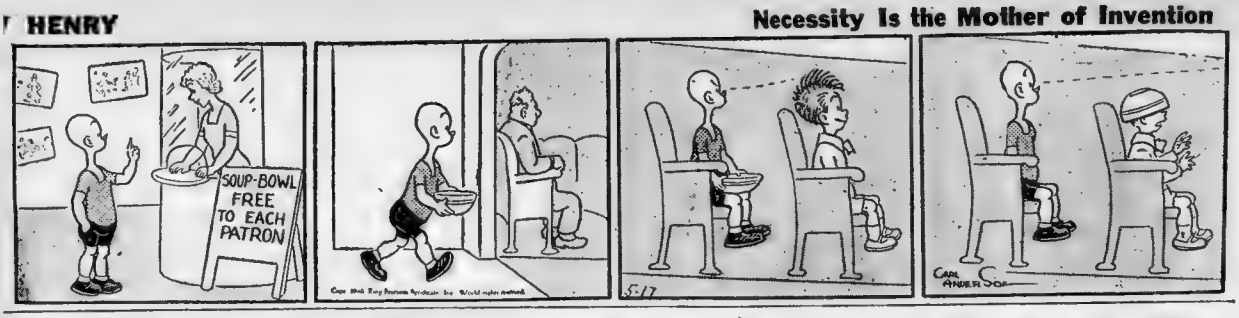
HENRY — Necessity Is the Mother of Invention



F. D. Defense Budget Is Sped by Congress

hearings and would expedite a vote in both houses.

To add to the regular army and navy funds totaling $1,971,000,000, Mr. Roosevelt asked $732,000,000 for the army and $250,000,000 for the navy.

ASKS SPECIAL FUND

Besides this, he requested $200,000,000 to be placed at his discretion for use, if necessary, in event of emergencies affecting the national security and for contract obligations related to defense needs.

Analyzing the special defense message, congressmen saw this broad program:

Army—An increase in the present strength of the regular Army and National Guard, backed by a vastly enlarged military arsenal capable of supplying a force of 1,000,000 men with the most modern equipment.

Navy—Acceleration of the warship building now under way, with the goal of having a fleet "in being" of 500 vessels.

Aircraft—More planes to swell the combined Army-Navy strength above the current level of 5000. Tremendous expansion of replacement production capable of turning out 50,000 planes annually.

Anti-Air Defense—Acquisition of a number of anti-aircraft batteries, detector and other equipment to go with them, and the training of anti-air personnel.

Coast Defense and Bases—Modernize and strengthen both.

Munitions—Get the nation's industry ready, through educational orders and government co-planning, for the tremendous expansion of capacity necessary to supply the armed forces in case of attack.

As lawmakers took stock of the geared-up defense program, they found it as intricate as the mechanism of one of the fleet units it may involve.

BUDGET SOARS

One thing quickly became apparent—the defense boost was likely to give the country the largest peacetime budget in its history.

Approval of the extraordinary appropriations, added to the regular government expenditures already in sight, would send the outlay for the next fiscal year to about $10,000,000,000—or a billion more than the year just ending.

Of the estimated total, almost one-third would be for national defense.

Closely linked was the question of financing the preparedness spending. Mr. Roosevelt made no suggestions on that score.

Informed congressional sources indicated that increased borrowing, rather than new taxes, would be the method. This appeared to foreshadow a raise in the $45,000,000,000 public debt limit, now almost reached, but the sources said that action probably would not be necessary at this session.

AGREE WITH PRESIDENT

Despite the knotty financial problems, many congressmen expressed agreement with the President's assertion that the transcendent thing was to make the national defense invulnerable, and that other considerations were secondary.

Discussing the recommendations afterward, the one point on which Republicans reserved promises of support was the request to allocate $200,000,000 to the President for contract authorizations and emergencies affecting the national security.

The House Republican leader, Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, referred to this as a "blank check."

Dodge Group To Build Planes

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — On the heels of President Roosevelt's request for a 50,000-plane air force, Charles Cone of Miami Beach, Fla., announced here today that a group headed by Horace E. Dodge of the Detroit automobile family planned to open a huge plane and engine factory in Newport News, Va.

"Things have happened rapidly since the President's speech," said Cone. "We already have our own landing field in Newport News, near the plant building, which covers about three acres."

Hoover Backs F. D. Billion Defense Plan

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, who was succeeded in the White House by President Roosevelt, today cast aside all partisan considerationsand wholeheartedly endorsed Mr. Roosevelt's billion-dollar defese program.

"The President is right," he said in commenting on the message the President read before Congress yesterday, "that our defense armament should be revised in the light of experience from this war.

"There can be no partisanship upon the principle of national defense."

He recommended that production be placed in the hands of a staff of tried leaders chosen from actual industrial production.

In the past Hoover has frequently as last July declared that President Roosevelt had brought the threats of war closer to this country by taking "a seat at the table where [international) power politics is being played."

Nazis Hold British Air Ace a Prisoner

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—Britain's air ace, Squadron Leader K. C. Doran, who led the raid on the Kiel Canal the second day of the war, was believed today to be a prisoner of the Germans.

Norris Backs Help for Allies

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Sn. Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska, the ly remaining Senator who opsed American entry into the lorld War, predicted today that te United States would not join in te present European conflict even Germany appeared to be on the rge of crushing the Allies.

"Letters are now coming in by the thousands," he told reporters, "that we ought to do everything we can—short of getting into the war—to help England and France.

"I think that is the right kind of sentiment for the public to have. I want to see England and France win, but I will part company with the sentiment if it ever goes to the point where it favors sending out troops abroad again."

NAVY NETS FOR HUB, N. Y., GULF

WASHINGTON, May 17 (INS) — An impregnable ring of harbor and coastal defenses is planned by the navy as the result of President Roosevelt's plea for increased armaments.

Foremost on the navy's program is the strengthening of the defenses along the sea approaches to the major industrial cities of the East and Gulf coasts.

This the navy hopes to accomplish through the following:

1—Purchase of approximately $25,000,000 worth of modern submarine nets.

2—Reconditioning of a fleet of old submarines, over-age destroyers, patrol boats and mine layers and sweepers, and

3—Purchase of an undetermined number of speedy miniature torpedo and patrol vessels.

Submarine nets to guard the harbors at such vita lareas as Boston, New York, Baltimore, Charleston and ports in the Gulf of Mexico are considered an immediate defense need.

An appropriation for the nets was requested early this year but Congress authorized only $2,000,00) for this item.

Military experts reported that in the event of an attack on the United States, the Navy would be forced to make up for the deficiency of the Army's anti-aircraft and sea-coast guns. This deficiency can be remedied partly by additional submarines, destroyers and torpedo boats, they said.

The Navy has 36 old destroyers, 27 over-age submarines, one minelayer, four mine-sweepers, four patrol boats and 16 decommissioned auxiliary vessels such as tankers, tenders and supply ships. These are the vessels thaht will be refurbished for active duty.

A large number of old destroyers already have been placed in service with the western hemisphere neutrality patrol.

Headaches—Dizziness Symptoms Associated with HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE OFTEN RELIEVED WITH ODORLESS GARLIC IF TAKEN CONTINUOUSLY AT PRESCRIBED INTERVALS

For many years, garlic has been an important part of the dietary treatment used in lowering High Blood Pressure by various physicians throughout the entire world. Men and women suffering from dizziness, splitting headaches, heart and chest pains, sleeplessness, and other symptoms generally associated with High Blood Pressure have, in some cases, experienced soothing relief, if garlic was taken continuously at prescribed intervals.

If you suffer from High Blood Pressure and would like to try the simple garlic method, but dislike the taste and odor of garlic, here is good news for you. Recently, a process was invented by which fresh garden garlic is concentrated into tiny, odorless tablets, which are coated with a delicious sweet chocolate. These tiny, easy-to-take tablets, called G.P.I. TABLETS, may be taken whenever needed without offense of distaste to yourself or others.

G.P.I. TABLETS are sold with but one purpose and that is to give High Blood Pressure sufferers wholesome garlic in a delicious chocolate coated tablet free from objectionable taste or odor. Take advantage of our MONEY BACK GUARANTEE offer. TEAR OUT THIS NOTICE—present it with only 83c ($ pkgs. $1.65) at your nearest Nature Food Centres store for your G.P.I. TABLETS. U.S. Navy Hero Last Invader of Britain

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—The British, organizing a force of 250,000 "Minute Men" to resist any invasion by Hitler's parachute troopers, dug into history books today and discovered that the last foreign raider to set foot on English soil was John Paul Jones, the American naval hero—and he was born in Scotland.

They figured the Nazis would follow the American's strategy in at least one respect—choose a remote part of the country for their landing—but the Nazis also would be tougher to throw out.

Jones spread consternation in England with a landing on the bleak, rocky Cumberland coast on April 22, 1778. Leaving his ship the Ranger, off Whitehaven, Jones landed a band of 32 men "armed" with candles.

They first surprised the two forts commanding the harbor and spiked the guns, and then set out to try to destroy shipping in the harbor. That attempt failed, however, because the invaders' candles burned out.

The resourceful Jones sent a man to a house to ask for a light. The raiders then set fire to one large ship before guns of the other ships compelled them to retreat.

Jones was said to have made another landing on the other side of Solway Firth from Whitehaven. His objective was to capture the Earl of Selkirk, who lived within a stone's throw of Jones' birthplace.

Jones failed to find the Earl, but made off with his silver plate.

BRITISH BOAST OF AIR FORCE

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—An authoritative source said today the military situation from the standpoint of the Allies "though very serious may be regarded as very slightly better than yesterday or on Wednesday."

A meeting of the Allied Supreme War Council in Paris yesterday attended by Prime Minister Churchill was described as having had "a very beneficial effect."

The prime minister flew to Paris and returned by plane.

This is an authoritative British view of today's war position:

1—The situation on the French battle line is very serious.

2—However, the outcome is awaited with "complete confidence."

3—Reports from the fighting zones make it clear that the Royal Air Force, "machine for machine and man for man, is decisively superior to the enemy."

A British spokesman compared the present battle of the Meuse with the protracted fighting at Verdun in the World War (from February to November, 1916.)

He said the battle might be expected to continue "with varying fortunes for both sides" and that it was impossible to form a "clearer appreciation" of the situation at this time.

Churchill, he said, calls the fighting the "battle of the Bulge," due to the conformation of the line of battle.

Nazi Skipper's Ruse Gets His Ship to Norway

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17 (AP)—A German captain's determination to take his ship through the Allied blockade because it was his last trip before retiring docked the freighter Seattle at Nazi-held Trondheim, Norway, officials of the Hamburg-American Line disclosed today.

The Seattle was reported in a dispatch from Aruba, Netherlands West Indies, March 6, as having been intercepted, presumably by warships of the Allied blockade. The report quoted the master of the Seattle as saying the ship had been captured.

Hamburg American officials said that Capt. H. Lehmann sent the message as a ruse to throw Allied patrol vessels off guard.

They said Lehmann vowed he would get the vessel through because he was to be retired after this trip and wanted to make it successful.

The Seattle, officials reported, sneaked to Iceland from the South American coast, then played hide-and-seek with enemy warships to Norway. The crew now is in Hamburg.

Britain to Draft Wartime Diet

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—Evolution of a scientific wartime diet to meet the possible "drastic changes" in Britain's food supply was envisaged today by the government committee investigating national expenditure.

A committee statement warned that the country might be forced to "make full use of every ounce of available resources." Immediate formation of a body of "scientists and practical men" to draft the basic future food policy was urged.

DEFENSE TO BOOM INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Administration economists predicted today that President Roosevelt's billion-dollar defense program would have a substantial stimulating effect on American industry by mid-summer.

At the same time, they prophesied that it would make little change in WPA rolls, because millions of unemployed men outside relief ranks may get first call on the new private jobs.

Employment for billions of dollars of idle money lying in banks also was envisioned, as officials indicated that Treasury borrowing probably would be the principal method of financing the new program, even though it might involve increasing the $45,000,000,000 debt limit

BUSINESS RISE SEEN

One economist, who is a frequent consultant of the President, said his colleagues believed that business already was recovering from the slump which set in after Christmas and were optimistic about the year's outlook even before the new defense expenditures were requested.

He added that while some phases of the President's program might take many months to get under way, Mr. Roosevelt had suggested a number of activities which could be translated into immediate work.

In shipyards, airplane factories, motor factories, parachute plants, and munitions plants, this economist said, the pickup should be noted quickly

In such places, he explained, work won't have to wait altogether on building new factories, because the President contemplates doubling or tripling the shifts already at work.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce said in New York that expansion of the aircraft industry to produce 50,000 warplanes a year was "relatively a simple matter" involving a threefold increase in personnel.

OTHER WORK DUE

Later on, Washington officials explained, there will be much work for other kinds of laborers, such as construction workers needed to build new factories or annexes to existing ones.

Labor officials and government sources gave assurances that the nation's supply of skilled labor was sufficient to handle the program

Steel and other important materials to go into the new planes, shells and tanks can be ordered almost immediately, so that they will be ready by the time new factories are erected to fabricate them.

Some of the proposed steps will take small amounts of labor out of the labor market, such as the enlistment of more men for the army and the sending of thousands of others to aviation schools

FRANCE'S FIGHTING HEART IS THE REAL MAGINOT LINE

Courage Stronger Than Fort

By FRED PERKINS

How strong is France's "impregnable" Maginot Line?

Ask that question of an ancien combattant—an old fighter—of the bitter First World War years on the Western Front. And he will tell you:

"Just as strong, m'sieu, as the hearts of the Frenchmen who defend it!"

Not will this be an evasive answer. For your old fighter will be remembering the death reek of the Verdun forts of Vaux and Douaumont.

He will be remembering the slain piled shoulder high on the bloody slopes of Morte Homme and Hill 304.

He will be remembering the great Belfort tunnel through Mont Cormicelle on Champagne.

And how the grisly black-coated corpses of the garrison of 2000 Prime Jeune Germains lolled after the Foreign Legion and the Algerian Zouaves had stormed that hill and had dumped ten truckloads of gasoline down the tunnel mouth and had touched off the pyre with incendiary bombs.

He will be remembering from experience on cold, old lesson of war, a lesson dating back through tens upon tens of centuries, dating back to the trumpets that leveled the walls of Jericho.

WAR'S LESSON

Forts men can build, other men can take—that's the lesson taught by history.

Yet France's greatest military minds conceived and designed the Maginot Line. And it was constructed at a cost of more than $150,000,000 as La Patrie's insurance policy against a repetition of the German invasion of 1914-1918.

So you ask, of course:

"Well, if it isn't impregnable, what good is it?"

And your old fighter smiles grimly and takes time to spit before he answers you. Then he says:

The Maginot forts are only France's first line, not her last. They are doing now what they were built to do. They are holding the Reches until French resistance is organized to meet the spearhead of the thrust."

Look back through newspaper files and read the early descriptions of the Maginot Line.

You'll find André Maginot himself, as war minister never claimed the wall he gave his name would be unshatterable.

A GREAT FEAT

All he claimed, all Marshal Pétain and General Weygand claimed, was that breaking the Maginot Line would cost a foe tremendously dear in men material and time.

"A hard nut to crack," one veteran French cannoneer called the Line. And his phrase if anything, was an understatement of fact.

As an engineering feat, as a means to the military end it was brought into existence to fulfill, the Maginot Line is unparalleled.

It was long perfected and improved when the Siegfried Line was just a minor worry wrinkle on Adolf Hitler's otherwise plentifully furrowed brow.

500,000 MEN

The main line of Maginot forts and artillery turrets and tank traps and machine gun pillboxes stretches for 125 miles from the Swiss to the Belgian borders.

The "Little Maginot Line" extends between France and Belgium to the English channel.

Best guess of the experts is that the Line is manned, at present, by no less than 500,000 of the finest garrison troops France and her colonies can muster.

Good storm troops are one thing. Good garrison troops are another.

Generalissimo Maurice Gustave Gamelin, shrewd psychologist and veteran soldier that he is, believes he's put men in the Maginot Line who can stand the terrific strain of living under actual war conditions in warrooms to the bowels of a huge land submarine.

The Maginot Line lacks an ocean submarine's mobility. But its bowels are just as far from fresh air and daylight as a sunken sub's.

True, the Line has a "fool-proof" double-action Diesel-electric ventilation system. So has a U-boat, for that matter.

It is going to be a stuffy job, a nerve-racking job, to sleep and eat and toil and sniff for gas and wait for death in some unpredictable form in the Maginot Line's lowest and most vital regions when the very earth is shaking to the tempo of Nazi blitzkrieg thunder and lightning.

DOWN, DOWN!

The upper turrets of the Line, with their heavy guns, have been compared to the turrets of a super-modern battleship.

The two top levels of the subterranean forts house the troops who are first on call for duty.

Deeper still are ammunition dumps, telephone switchboards, medical supplies and operating rooms and hospitals.

Go down another level and you come to the tracks and freight stations of the subway trains which link separated units of the Line.

Yet deeper again are more ammunition, more food supplies, more of all the essential paraphernalia of war.

Being down under the Maginot Line is a plenty important job for a plenty important several hundreds of thousands of men.

Yet with the kind of total war Hitler's Nazis are waging on the surface of the earth, these hundreds of thousands have to take a lot on faith while they go about their assigned routine.

HAD IT TOUGH

Your old fighter will tell you he had his Fust World War combats. He had it tough enough in Champagne, Chemin des Dames, Quarry and South Woods at Verdun.

Those were the best subterranean shelters of their era. The beleaguered French were able to hold them until the American Argonne drive of September, 1918, drove back the German menace not to return again for 22 years.

There were electric lights in the enormous quarries. There were fans and food and ammunition. There was safety against shellfire, even against the comparatively puny airplane bombs of 1914-1918.

But there were also rats and crawling vermin and the sour stink of too many human bodies too closely packed together.

There were moans of wounded and the open-eyed faces of the dead.

There was no sun, no daylight, no rest of mind, no solace of violent action against the enemy.

FELL TO YANKS

Yet the Verdun forts and quarries were the Maginot Line of the war of a generation ago.

And they were strong—as strong as the hearts of the Frenchmen who defended them!

The Germans had their Hindenberg Line, your old fighter will recall for you.

For three long years the Reches toiled and planned to make that stronghold impregnable a steel and concrete vise on the great and priceless slice of northern France their grey-green legions had seized and held since 1914!

Yet the Yanks, raw young troops with broad shoulders and tanned boyish faces and gleaming unstained bayonets, cracked the Hindenberg line.

It was no stronger than the broken morale of the beaten German divisions that held it against their will and against their instinct of self-preservation.

Their home front had collapsed, and their "impregnable" line collapsed in its turn.

So what now of the Maginot Line?

TIME IS VITAL

Where it stretches from Luxembourg to Belgium, one of the most tremendous conflicts ever fought on earth is raging.

The Nazi hordes are waging "three dimensional war" Land barriers their new armed divisions and antitank corps hail immediately to overwhelm are invaded by airplane flights that almost darken the sky with their crowding wings.

Against such attack the Maginot Line defenders can only burrow moleike in their heavily fortified galleries. Their turreted guns may rout enemies and destruction. But they cannot wholly stem the tide that washes around and over them.

One thing they can do, however. The one vital thing that is their basic purpose.

They can take their price in blood—and time!

They can slow the German rush.

They can make it concentrate its force.

They can compel it to spend the high fever of its fury on the all but impervious defenses.

And behind them, waiting, gathering, with its foe, like ye to strike chunky trenches and [illegible] Generalissimo Maurice G[illegible] Gamelin awaits the [illegible] of the Maginot Line's first [illegible] test.

NOT FINLAND

If it is true that the Line is as strong as the hearts of the Frenchmen who defend it, there's more to the Line than the gun turrets and the pillboxes and the tank traps and the subterranean chambers.

They're just the front of the Line. Its rear stretches back to Paris, back to Bordeaux, back to Marseilles, back to the Pyrenees, back to the shores of North Africa.

For France is not Finland, not Norway, not Holland.

When Von Kluck was hammering at the gates of Paris in the opening weeks of the war of 1914-1918, the French moved their capital to Bordeaux and announced themselves just really started fighting.

Not for nothing was the greatest French World War poster of them all a representation of a raging goddess, her bosom bared, her garments torn by the blasts of mischance, her face to the foe and her mouth strained open with a scream of exalted defiance.

On his aura! was slogan of that poster.

"We'll take 'em yet!"

And the boast was made good in 1918.

The French paid dear for their unpreparedness in 1914. They [illegible] that in 1940 [illegible]

The Maginot Line is the [illegible] of [illegible]

[illegible]

ARTHUR BRISBANE, illustrious writer and editor, was not given to gloating and saying "I told you so."

But many of the millions who read Arthur Brisbane's daily column and remember his predictions will certainly say, "Yes, he did tell us so."

Aroused by war abroad, President Roosevelt now asks Congress to provide funds for an America air armada of 50,000 planes.

Six years ago Mr. Brisbane anticipated both the President's request and its ambitious goal. He wrote on January 28, 1934:

ARTHUR BRISBANE
Foresaw Nation's Need

"This nation should be always ready for war, on a scale equal to its wealth, its power and its love of peace.

"And we should make other nations of the world KNOW that we are ready, doubly and trebly ready, not in the old, worn-out, obsolete methods of war, but in the newest and latest, and ahead of the newest and latest, elsewhere.

"We should have THE WORLD'S GREATEST FIGHTING AIR FLEET, doubling always that of any other nation; and our government, not depending on profit-making enterprises, should experiment PERPETUALLY with better and greater air machines, more effective and deadly weapons, more terrific explosives, submarines capable of crossing the ocean without coming to the surface, and if necessary, airships able to fly non-stop across any ocean and return."

Today, a half-dozen years later, President Roosevelt says substantially the same thing in these words:

"Our task is plain. The road we must take is clearly indicated. Our defenses must be invulnerable, our security absolute . . .

"Defense cannot be static. Defense must grow and change from day to day. Defense must be dynamic and flexible, an expression of vital forces of the nation and of its resolute will to meet whatever challenge the future may hold."

DEPLORING MODERN WARFARE, President Roosevelt asks Congress to face realties and explains:

"New powers of destruction, incredibly swift and deadly, have been developed; and those who wield them are ruthless and daring."

The President might well have obtained a five-year-old newspaper and read Mr. Brisbane's editorial of October 13, 1935, which asked:

"Who will give Uncle Sam the needed warning? Who will make him realize that bombs from the sky DO destroy life and buildings and flatten cities?"

We do not know whether Adolf Hitler, rising to power in Germany, ever saw a Brisbane column or noted the editor's prediction that "the Napoleon of tomorrow will be the ruler with the biggest air force."

But, as a shocked world now understands, Hitler seems to be doing his utmost to PROVE it.

We do know, however, that the menace of the Nazi dictator's sweep to Napoleonic heights never escaped Mr. Brisbane's attention.

While most people were ridiculing the former corporal's comical moustache and scoffing at his early antics, Mr. Brisbane was LOOKING AHEAD, talking about what MIGHT HAPPEN.

As long ago as August 21, 1934, he observed:

"Hitler is today the world's most powerful ruler, in control of a great nation. As regards his 'legal' powers, there is practically no limit to them . . .

"Herr Hitler has the power to declare war and to make peace.

"It might be easier to declare war than to make peace in these times. He is commander of the army, navy and air force, which indicates rapid progress for a gentleman who was not even a citizen of the German nation four years ago."

IT IS TOO LATE for millions in Europe to profit by the wisdom of Arthur Brisbane and other realistic thinkers.

But it is not too late for millions in America to do now what should have been done months and even years ago.

We cannot unmake the past or bring back a solitary moment of yesterday.

But we can look into the future, face the situations that are apparent and prepare to meet them intelligently.

We are sure that if Arthur Brisbane were living, he would revive his famous editorial of January, 1934, and again say to us:

"The United States should be able to warn other counties:
'If you plan to attack us, to disturb our peace, to force upon us war that we abhor, we advise you first to come here and see what punishment would reward your stupidity.'"

On the Side

-!- -!- By E. V. DURLING

NOBODY has invented a four-edged razor blade . . . Present fighting in Europe caused some of the boys who were in the Meuse-Argonne offensive in 1918 to recall it. In that drive 750,000 American soldiers took part, and 122,000 were killed or wounded . . . Food expert claims more people eat baked ham for dinner than do steak. I don't believe it. But baked ham is very good; especially with sweet potatoes . . . There are 350,000 practicing nurses in the U. S. A. Every year about 9,500,000 people have to go to the hospital and an average of 1,000,000 blessed events take place annually in hospitals. I don't know whether I was born in a hospital or not. How far back do your recollections go? I can remember several things that happened when I was three years old.

IT IS SAID 45,000,000 people in this country wear spectacles. Am not one of them yet. I know a woman who was told she positively had to wear spectacles but she refused to believe it. She took eye exercises and cured herself . . . Said Jim Farley: "Franklin D. Roosevelt is the first President since Lincoln to work for the betterment of the Negro." But, my dear James, how about Theodore Roosevelt? Didn't Teddy invite Booker T. Washington, Negro educator, to the White House for luncheon?

HELEN MORGAN is this department's favorite singer of sad songs. I think she is a great actress, too. Helen was born in Danville, Ill., started her career in a Chicago floor show and made her first big hit with the public in general in "Show Boat." She made her first big hit with me when I heard her sing while sitting on the top of a piano in a Manhattan night club. Among Miss Morgan's rarely referred to achievements is that she once won a beauty contest in Montreal and was given the title "Miss Canada." And it does not seem to be generally known Helen was once considered opera material and spent a year studying voice at the Metropolitan Opera School.

ROB WAGNER, painter, magazine editor and sea-shell collector, is trying to arouse interest in a campaign for Eleanor Roosevelt for President and Anne Morrow Lindbergh for Vice-President. Not such a bad idea at that. I wonder what kind of a Secretary of War Dorothy Thompson would make. Of course with an all feminine cabinet no one but Mary Pickford could be selected Secretary of Treasury. And what energetic opposition Alice Roosevelt would furnish as a member of Congress . . . Edward Arnold, actor, believes, as three million people become 21 years old each year, there should be a national holiday to celebrate the occasion. Where were you on your 21st birthday? I was playing baseball at Mt. Kineo, Moosehead Lake, Me.

-!- -!- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, May 17—I had a pleasant time Wednesday with the girls at the Madiera School.

They asked me far more personal questions than did the boys at Choate School last week. However, I think they had a bearing on the thing which is in all our minds today, namely, personal responsibility in a democracy.

The President is asking for a greater increase in our national defenses. Of course, it is vital as the picture develops before our eyes, for us to understand the need of the ability to produce mechanized weapons of war in order to protect our manpower.

One has but to read the record of what happened to Holland's army—one-fourth wiped out—to realize why we must have modern weapons of war.

IN ADDITION, we must realize that, if democracy is to survive, it must be because it meets the needs of its people.

Anyone who knows this country, knows that there are some people to whom the form of government under which they live might easily seem immaterial because of the difficult economic situations they have faced. The President and his administration have been trying to meet and improve their situation and all future administrations will have to continue their efforts.

We need a united front here as well as the more tangible front of creating war materials. It requires greater co-operation and it will require greater self-sacrifice really to make democracy something for which every citizen will feel he will willingly die, because with its loss, will go economic as well as intellectual freedom.

Much has been said in this country about not wanting to participate in foreign wars and people who have said it, must now face the fact that foreign wars come very close to our own shores.

We will always have not only the religious groups, but many groups who feel that war is wrong. I can not imagine how anyone could feel otherwise with the picture before them today.

But when force not only rules in certain countries, but is a menace to all the world, as it is today, one can not live in a Utopia which prays for different conditions and ignores those which exist.

I have a great belief in spiritual force, but I think we have to realize that spiritual force alone has to have material force with it so long as we live in a material world. The two together make a strong combination.

For years I have hoped that we could stop war as an instrument for settling any national and international difficulties. I have worked for it and shall continue to work for it.

However, one has to face the world as it is and, without discarding one's ideals, meet the realities of the day and keep on working for what one hopes will be a better future.

AUTHOR WANTS INFANTRY POST

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 17—Noel Coward, in discussing the job he holds in Paris, expressed a desire to get into the infantry . . . to get behind a gun and fight for his country in actual combat . . . "As a matter of fact, Noel," one of them suggested, "you'd be safe, in the infantry. When you're fighting as part of a combat d'vision, only one man out of five gets killed." . . . "But you know how I am," said Coward, "whenever I'm with a crowd, I always pick up the check."

ENTERPRISE: Moss Hart is completing the writing of his play, "I Am Listening." In addition, he and George S. Kaufman will begin writing their new play within two weeks. Kaufman & Hart now are also collaborating with Robert E. Sherwood—writing a movie they expect to sell, and to devote the proceeds to the Authors' League, which is in need of funds.

GYPSY ROSE LEE

MISTAKE: Friday afternoon, at the World's Fair-grounds, the painters worked on a new sign announcing: "Michael Todd's Hall of Music Presents 'The Streets of Paris,' Gypsy Rose Lee" . . . Before the sign was completed the painters quit, at 4 p. m., the customary quitting time, to resume the job Monday. That's why Michael Todd, World's Fair impresario, spent Friday night whitewashing the words already painted—words which he feared the Saturday opening-day crowds might see—an incompleted sign which read: "Michael Todd's Hall of Music Presents 'Streets of Paris,' Gyp."

DIGNITY: C. V. R. Thompson, author of "I Lost My English Accent," attended the Allied Relief Ball—which was a Costume Ball—wearing a neatly pressed tuxedo . . . "This is supposed to be a Costume Ball," Thompson was reminded. "What're you dressed up as?" . . . "But it's so obvious," Thompson protested. "I'm dressed up as an Englishman about to dine in the jungle."

DESTRUCTION: The plaque on the Czecho-Slovakian Pavilion at the Fair, bearing the inscription of the donors who helped open the Pavilion after Hitler had marched into Prague, was destroyed mysteriously a few days ago . . . A new sign has replaced it. It reads: "Destroyed by Vandals."

PROBLEM: President Roosevelt, in discussing the invasion of Holland and Belgium, made this comment: "If we get through this war without feeling a sense of high indignation, then we will have lost in stature. Our problem is to feel indignation, and still not lose our heads and become involved."

YOU'VE HEARD OF THE CALLOW YOUTH — a cynic in sophomore—who exclaimed: "Women? Pshaw! They're like a street-car. One comes along every minute!" . . . Trains instead of street-cars, and one every hour instead of every minute, is the purpose and resolution of Hyde Park's citizens . . . And that much has been printed . . . It is news, however, that the Boston City Council has intervened officially . . . A committee of seven, with Councilor James J. Goode, Jr., of Hyde Park, will "wait on" the Public Utilities Commission

THE COMMITTEE will press the appeal of the City Council that the New York, New Haven and Hartford give the "one train an hour" policy a month's tryout . Observers have clocked the difference in running time . . . Intown to Hyde Park is 45 minutes by trolley, they say, and South Station to Hyde Park is a 17-minute run . . . Not that it means much, but your reporter is ready to predict that the railroad would find the added service profitable . . . As a matter of fact, he does predict it.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: It seemed that President Roosevelt's audience of solons while he made his preparedness speech acted as if it had been "let down" at only one juncture of the historic message . . . That was when FDR was talking about the country's military leaders . . . "Our officers know more about war than —" (pause) . . . This listener anticipated a strong "plug" for the generals and admirals, and it seemed that the absorbed audience awaited the completion of the sentence to read somewhat as follows: "Know more about war than those of any other nation" . . . What the President actually said was slightly anti-climactic . . It was, moreover, the only platitude His Excellency released . . . "Our officers know more about war than (pause) laymen," was the point he made . . . Comment on the speech around town was glowing . . . People were saying that the Reichstag never heiled Hitler more heartily than the Congress applauded President Roosevelt yesterday . . . And they don't have to clap in Washington.

THAT POLITICS IS "CATCHING" is proved again by the decision of Alfred C. Holland, secretary to President William J. Galvin of the City Council, to run for Representative from Ward 16 . . . The Holland campaign will be launched with a supper, dance and whist at the Colonial Club . . . Benny Rubin (Joe's big brother), is distinguishing himself in a radio re-enactment of the "life story" of George Burns, Gracie Allen's partner . . . And the Boston branch of the omnipresent Rubins (mainly Joseph), will hold the annual recital of the Rubin Academy of All Arts at the Bradford June 7.

THE BOSTON W. U. MESSENGERS will present their fourth annual revue and dance at the Ritz Plaza tonight . . . And at the Venetian Room of the Copley Square, the Paul A. Dever Club of Boston will hold forth tonight . . . More than 500 youngsters (under 14) have enrolled in the roller-skating tournament scheduled for tomorrow in Park drive, the Fenway. It's another interesting competition inaugurated by Bill Mullen, the

MARJORIE RAMBEAU IN DRESSLER ROLE

Marjorie Rambeau

HOLLYWOOD, May 17—The Marie Dressler role of "Tugboat Annie" has been given to Marjorie Rambeau but don't get excited. Marjorie will make no attempt to be a "second Dressler." No one could possibly take the place of our beloved Marie and Marjorie is good enough actress to stand on her own and create her own characterization. In the course of two years there have been 22 tests made for the Dressler role and I think M-G-M is wise indeed to select Marjorie.

Second surprise of the "Tugboat Annie" casting is that Alan Hale gets the part once created by Wallace Beery and so it will be Marjorie and Alan in the new "Tugboat Annie Sails Again." Alan is a swell choice, too, for my money. Production on the Norman Reilly Raine story starts in two weeks and if it clicks you will be seeing Alan and Marjorie in a series of these yarns.

PRISCILLA LANE

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Paulette Goddard, who was greatly upset by her father's suit, has gone to Mexico to forget it all; Nelson Eddy will have a minor nose operation next week; the James Stephenson baby, a boy, arrived at the Good Samaritan yesterday—papa is an English actor; that new ruby and topaz bracelet Barbara Stanwyck is wearing was given her by Bob Taylor on their last wedding anniversary.

BASIL RATHBONE gained 12 pounds and you can imagine he is very happy over his new figger. He and Ouida leave for Canada soon to visit Rodion, who is in the Canadian Air Corps; Ciro's looked like New Year's eve after the preview of "Lillian Russell"; Harry Ritz, dancing and looking lovingly into Pat Dane's eyes. Greer Garson, luscious redhead, and Benny Thau; Elsa Maxwell had a party for the Darryl Zanucks; the Jay Paleys entertained the Arthur Stebbins, Bob Ritchie and others; Mary Beth Hughes, a blonde cutie, danced every dance with one of our handsomest press lads; no one can resist Emil Coleman's music, which gets everyone on the floor at Ciro's.

PRISCILLA LANE and Ken Murray, a surprising Brown Derby dinner twosome; Jean Feldman is back from New York and Charlie is happy again; Phyllis Rooks has bought herself a raft of new clothes and is headed for New York; Cary Grant's heart throb is not Barbara Hutton as some of the news services whispered but a New York gal—socialite to whom he telephones every night; Ruth Foran (Mrs. Dick) who is one of Hollywood's real beauties, is leaving for New York. Too bad she and Dick couldn't get together; Patricia Ellis wearing a bandage on her hand to protect a very badly smashed finger, which caught in her car door.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

DURING my medical school days there was an army officer who lectured in the course on Diseases of the Eye. Every little while he would decide to take the afternoon off and relate some anecdote regarding his earlier experiences. He was about eighty years old, as I recall, tall with white hair, and a pleasant, merry, entertaining manner.

One day he said, "Boys, it's a hot day, and I feel that a rest will be a good thing for all of us. Let's talk about me this time."

We were willing, of course—anything to play "hookey." So we started him on some of his yarns about the Civil War days.

"DID I EVER tell you about the time I wanted to get into the medical service in the Rebellion?" he asked.

We said that he had not.

"Well, I was a medical student then myself," he started. "I was awfully anxious to get into the fracas and so I went down to the office of the Medical Corps with a group of my classmates to make an application.

"After we had filled out the questionnaires, we were all brought up before an examining board for a quiz."

A sultry wind blew in through the open window, and flies buzzed angrily as the doctor continued.

"Heading this ordeal was an old Colonel who stopped directly in front of me and said, 'Doctor, if you had to cut off a man's leg above the knee—I want to know what structures you would cut through?'

"I knew that he wanted me to name all the muscles and nerves and blood vessels, but for the life of me I couldn't recall any anatomy. I thought for a while. Finally he said again, rather impatiently I suppose, 'Well-well, what structures would you cut?'

"AT LAST I blurted out in despair, 'Why, I'd cut 'em all—I'd cut 'em all!'

"The officer laughed long and loud, and my classmates did too, but I got the appointment!"

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

WHAT BECAME of that dauntless adventurer you planned to be at 18, Jim that valiant crusader who was going to clean up the town? What happened to the poet or artist who sang in your 16-year-old heart, Aileen? Where have they gone, those shining ones—The People You Meant To Be? And who drove them away?

"I never had a chance to be what I wanted to be," you say rebelliously. "How can you be an artist when you've got to do your own housework, with three crying kids? Or an adventurer when you haven't even the price of a lark ride—much less a trip to the pole? . . . It wasn't my fault my dreams didn't come true. I just never had the breaks."

I WONDER! I've said the same thing myself, partner, and believed them. But I've a hunch now that I was just selling myself a slick alibi. For I've yet to see the human who couldn't have all the breaks he could use—IF HE WAS WILLING TO PAY THE PRICE FOR THEM.

There's a haunting passage in that beautiful, terrible book by Antoine de Saint Exupery—"WIND, SAND AND STARS"—(Reynold & Hitchcock, Publishers). As you may know, the book is the story of Exupery's own experiences as an air pilot, flying the French and African mail . . . his crash in the Sahara . . . the horror and hell of the Spanish war. Unforgettable writing. Read it if you have to pass up lunches for a month.

THE STORY opens on the ecstatic thoughts of the young Antoine as he basks in his first assignment. The night is not large enough to hold his pride and happiness. How wonderful life is!

But even as he marvels, he notices the pitiful faces of the defeated men who left along with him in the old bus.

What had happened to such men to ruin the vision they, too, must have had as boys?

How had life failed them? As though in warning, his own heart gives the answer.

NOTHING HAS HAPPENED TO THEM . . . AND THEREIN LAY THEIR TRAGEDY. THEY HAD REFUSED TO LET ANYTHING HAPPEN LEST IT DISTURB THEIR SECURITY. LIFE HAD NOT FAILED THEM . . . THEY HAD FAILED LIFE.

EXPLOSION PURELY VERBAL WHEN GLMITE TEST SNAGS

ABERDEEN, Md., May 17 (INS)—A 1000-pound mystery "aerial mine" was hoisted aloft to prove its vaunted might on 84 tethered goats, but the only bombs bursting in air were verbal explosions.

Inventor Lester P. Barlow mixed the lethal batter of his giant "Glmite" bomb too soon and when a committee of army and navy officials and members of Congress arrived to decide if "Glmite" is a powerful new aid to national defense, the liquid oxygen which is a critical ingredient of the explosive had dripped from the bomb to make just one more puddle on the rain soaked ground.

Barlow charged he had been "jobbed" by army experts whom he accused of deliberately misinforming him that the committee had arrived.

The army men denied this and pointed out that the bomb had been prepared half an hour ahead of the scheduled time, perhaps because Barlow was consulting a watch set to daylight instead of standard time.

The committee vainly insisted on the bomb being detonated anyway.

DETENTION ORDERED

The inventor, red with anger, jumped in his car and drove headlong away. Rep. Charles Fadis, a member of the House military affairs committee, shouted to army officers:

"Telephone the gate and have that man detained. He's a government agent and under subpoena. He's guilty of contempt of this committee."

Barlow was halted by a simple happening than arrest when he met Sen. Sheppard of Texas, chairman of the Senate military affairs committee, and other late arrivals, coming through the Aberdeen proving ground on a road too narrow to admit passing.

It was decided in the ensuing consultation to hold the demonstration again a week from Saturday, the 242 goats purchased as martyrs to national defense being meantime turned over to the care of amateur soldier goatherds.

LOSES $2000 JOB

BARLOW disclosed that not only had he failed to put his claims of mighty power to the test, but also he had wasted a $2000 bomb and his job with the Glenn H. Martin Airplane Company as well.

"The Army insisted," he said, that as it was buying the Glmite bomb from the Martin company, the firm should assume all responsibility for any damage done to other witnesses than the goats.

"The company couldn't do that, so I resigned as of yesterday, bought the bomb myself on credit and then resold it to the Army to be paid for after the demonstration.

"Now I suppose they won't pay me for it as it didn't go off and I'm still out of my job."

IN COTTON BAG

The bomb was a big cotton bag stuffed with "Glmite" and hoisted 30 feet above the ground like an over-sized football tackling dummy 12 miles inside the vast and carefully guarded army proving ground on Gunpowder river.

Barlow said if he had been allowed to cover the bomb with a thin copper "skin" the liquid oxygen wouldn't have dissipated for 30 hours, but Army regulations forbade that lest the official witnesses, huddled in a grandstand half a mile from the bomb, be injured by flying fragments.

Part of the material in the bomb that didn't boom can be salvaged, Barlow said, and he will complete another one in time for the new date. Sen. Sheppard, who maintained his calm through all the hubbub which arose when Barlow refused to detonate his depleted bomb, announced:

GETS ANOTHER CHANCE

"I think Mr. Barlow ought to be given every opportunity to prove his claims. We will set another date and this time he won't pour on his oxygen until all the committee is actually in the stand."

The army was all ready to explode both a 1000 and 1400-pound bomb of TNT, also using 84 goats each time, to provide a comparison with the "Glmite" bomb.

"It would have been useless for me to detonate my bomb after the oxygen had run out," Barlow said. "That loss destroyed the margin of power that Glmite has over TNT and the false comparison of weakened Glmite and full strength TNT might have been accepted as final. But next time—pity those goats."

Normandie Set For Ocean Dash

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Painters today were making another "grey ghost" of the once colorful French liner Normandie, one of the largest ships afloat.

They were daubing the camouflage covering over the superstructure of the huge liner, which French line officials previously have said would be tied up in the safety of New York harbor "for the duration."

The French line said it was not the intention to paint the entire vessel gray, and that the painters were merely doing "protective" painting against the weather.

Other giant liners, including the British Queen Mary and the French Ile de France, were painted gray just before they left for transport service.

League of Nations Ready to Flee Nazis

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 17 (AP)—The entire staff of the League of Nations today was ready, in the event of an invasion of Switzerland, to leave its palace on the shores of Lake Leman for "a safe place."

The new headquarters would be in Vichy, France, officials said. The present staff of 350 would be cut to a skeleton crew of 50. Many League records already have been sent to France.

20,000 to March in Dorchester Parade

With an estimated 20,000 in the line of march, the annual Dorchester Day Parade, sponsored by the Dorchester All-Together Movement, will be held Saturday afternoon, June 1. Gov. Saltonstall has endorsed the parade as a great public event which will "quicken and intensify the patriotic sentiment of the people."

Filipino Is Hunted In Death of Nurse

LOS ANGELES, May 17 (AP)—Constance Paradise, 28-year-old nurse, was found dead in her bed here, and police sought for questioning a missing Filipino chef who lived in an adjoining apartment.

Officers said Miss Paradise apparently had been knocked unconscious and then strangled. The right side of her jaw was dislocated and there were bruises on her throat.

Autopsy Surgeon Frank R. Webb asserted later, however, he found no traces of homicidal injury and ordered analysis of her vital organs.

Detective Lieutenants Miles Ledbetter and Lloyd Hurst said the cafe chef, known to have admired Miss Paradise, had been missing since last night.

On a dresser in his room the officers said they found a note reading in part:

"My darling Connie, don't you remember last night that you told me that you are going out with Mrs. Crosby, now I fined out that you are lying to me—darling, I am not stopping you going out. But I want you to tell me the truth. I tryed to be good to you Connie."

Wall St. Stock Slump Laid to Nazi Dumping

LONDON, May 17 (INS)—Nazi manipulators caused the recent Wall Street slump by dumping Danish-owned American bearer stock looted in the invasion of Denmark, it was said in London financial circles today.

The Germans are now planning to sell Dutch stock on the New York market, and United States authorities may take steps to prevent the move, the report said.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each week-day in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

Information Corner

QUERY: I have been printing my name and address on the Answer Forms I have sent in. A friend of mine tells me that I should have written my name in my customary signature in order to make my entry acceptable. Is my friend right about this?

REPLY: No. Your friend is wrong. It is perfectly all right to print your name and address. It makes no difference, just as long as your name and address are legible.

DEWEY TALKS IN UTICA

UTICA, N. Y., May 17 (INS)—Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential aspirant, will speak extemporaneously before a convention of the New York State Young Republican Clubs here tonight.

Nazis Say Big Retreat On

air force yesterday were enemy rear communications in France and Belgium.

"Numerous railway lines and roads were devastated, troop transport trains destroyed and troop concentrations and marching columns scattered.

WARSHIPS SUNK

"Attacking enemy naval forces and transports off the Dutch and Belgian coast, we sank one cruiser and one gunboat and damaged one transport which had to be beached. Two French destroyers were damaged.

"In the central North Sea, one submerged enemy submarine struck a bomb and was likely destroyed.

"Off Narvik we succeeded in bombing one battleship and one light cruiser and also set afire a tanker of 15,000 tons. One enemy chaser was shot down.

"The enemy lost 59 airplanes yesterday in the west, of which 30 were shot down in air battles, eight destroyed by anti-aircraft and the remainder on the ground. "Fifteen of our planes are missing."

Six German Messerschmidts shot down 13 British Blenheims in Belgium within an hour without suffering losses, military headquarters said.

British and French troops have been routed at many points between Antwerp and Sedan and are retreating rapidly in the direction of Paris, German quarters said.

German quarters laid stress upon the devastating effect of the Reich's new weapons and the strength of the Nazi air force. Prisoners show the mental effects of attacks by Stukas (dive-bombers) for 24 hours, it was said, see and thwart every countermove.

Every French and British troop concentration is being subjected to a merciless and demoralizing rain of high explosive bombs from Stukas (dive bombing) German planes.

Although regional setbacks from Allied flanks are expected, it is anticipated that the major offensive will roll toward Paris from Nazi positions in Belgium and France without a serious hitch.

An official communique issued by the Nazi high command said:

"The Maginot Line has been pierced along a 100-kilometer (62 miles) front line between the region south of Maubeuge and Carignan, southeast of Sedan."

Reference to the Maginot Line means the so-called "Little Maginot Line" along the Franco-Belgian border not the vast French fortifications along the German border.
—Editor's Note.

"During the battle between Antwerp and Namur we pierced Belgian Dyle river positions south of Wavre and captured the northeastern front at Namur fortress.

"We defeated French armored units counter-attacking our armored units west of Dinant.

"Our army and air force units are pursuing the enemy everywhere, and they are retreating to the west.

"Southeast of Sedan, Lieut.-Col Balck, commander of a motorized sharpshooter regiment, gained special success by his ruthless personal gallantry which resulted in capture of 12,000 prisoners, including two generals and numerous field guns.

You Can Be Beautiful

Home-Made Pack Clears Blemished Back or Legs

By ARLINE GOULD

DON'T LET the late spring befool you . . . It will turn hot suddenly, you'll invest as quickly as possible in the cutest, backless ballerina bathing suit you've ever owned . . . and if then you realize your back is a sight to behold, you have no one but yourself to blame for not starting off the summer right!

Don't risk any glamour losses . . . if your back erupts with red pimples, many of them, or if it has wide pores or even blackheads . . . if the texture of the skin is bumpy instead of smooth as silk . . . send in immediately to me, asking for our miraculous "tar and yeast pack."

It's amazingly simple to prepare . . . you may buy the ingredients for a matter of pennies anywhere . . . easy to apply . . . so with such simple beginnings it really is a matter of wonderment how beautifully it heals, soothes and clears up unsightly backs!

The secret is that two of nature's most potent aids are employed in a duet for skin beauty . . . tar and yeast. Though it should not be used on the face, the tar and yeast pack is like a magic wand waved over any blemished areas on the body, legs or arms as well as back.

You can help your skin to stay clear by getting the brush habit in bathing . . . and scouring gently with a good soap. Rough, goose-pimpled legs are really a sign of neglect . . . so take care! But for a thorough spring cleaning, for glamourizing so your skin is softly lovely to behold . . . this is the treatment!

Write for your copy of the pennies-for-beauty recipe, a "yeast and tar soap pack" which will clear up blemished skin of the back and body and make it smooth and fair; address Arline Gould, Boston American, and please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love and Marriage

Declines Home and Children

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We've been married for ten years, and I've been absolutely true to my wife, worked hard and loved her.

I always wanted a home, a child and everything that a man in his right mind wants. I have pleaded and coaxed my wife to let me have a home, and to no avail—she prefers living in an apartment.

After we had been married a couple of years, she told me she couldn't have any children. I then suggested we adopt a child, but she would not consent.

She smokes constanly and uses bad language, but I still want to be fair to her. I'm at my wit's end. But she has been a good pal and stuck to me through thick and thin. All my friends have children, and all I ever want of life is a wife, a home of my own and a child. Am I never to have these things? DISAPPOINTED.

It seems to me that your expectations in life for a home and children are entirely normal and if your wife refuses to permit you to adopt a child in the event that she cannot bear one of her own, it would be a good thing to talk this over with your lawyer.

Some women claim that they cannot have children when their actual reason is that they don't want to be bothered with them.

Judging from your letter, which is too long to print in its entirety, to you is to go to a good lawyer, one who specializes in domestic relations.

Ceremony at Grosse Pointe

THE WEDDING will take place in Christ Church Chapel, Grosse Pointe, with a large garden party reception at the Seyburns' lakeshore residence in that fashionable suburb . . .

The Seyburns' Detroit friends are looking forward to the wedding and its attendant influx of prominent Bostonians, for Charlie is the son of Mrs. Saltonstall Meyer and Mr. George von L. Meyer of Boston, and a member of Beantown's distinguished Saltonstall clan . . .

The future bride will have her sub-deb sister, Edith, as maid of honor, while the bevy of bridesmaids will include a younger sister, Isabel, Mrs. Forrest Lindley (Gwendolyn Seyburn), Nancy Meyer, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Chandler Hovey, Jr. (Nancy Blumer) who was Susie's closest chum during her deb days in Boston . . .

Also taking part in the wedding will be Dodo Potter of New York and the North Shore, Alice Whitney of New York, a bevy of Detroiters—Mrs. Sherman Mitchell, Pamela Turner, Louise Bowen, Elizabeth Derrick, Barbara Holton, and Constance Shepard of St. Paul . . .

George Myer will be his brother's best man and the line-up of prominent young Bostonians in the usher corps will consist of George Peabody Gardner, Jr., Henry Russell, Chandler Hovey, Jr., and Robert Gannett . . . Completing the bakers' dozen will be Elliott Bacon, Peter Nicholas, Oliver Iselin, Jr., Francis Lawrence, Robert Whitney, Paul Moore, Norman Frost and Peter Hare . . .

Harty-Piper Bridal Today

A PROFUSION of fragrant apple blossoms decorate the Concord Country Club for the wedding reception following the marriage of Anne Piper and Roger Philip Harty, this afternoon.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Piper, made her debut in 1937-38 and has been studying art in Boston. Mr. Harty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Harty of Buffalo, graduated from Harvard in 1939 and attended Harvard Business School.

The ceremony is in the First Parish Church, Concord. With her gown of ivory satin made with a heart shaped neckline and long tight sleeves, the bride is wearing her mother's tulle veil trimmed with old family lace, and carrying lilies of the valley.

Margaret and Catherine Piper, the maids of honor, are wearing gowns of lavendar marquisette with full skirts, bishop sleeves and turbans of matching tulle.

The bridesmaids are Catherine H. Clark, Mrs. G. Lincoln Dow, Jr., of Cambridge, Ruth Morse and Barbara Ginn. Their gowns are of pale green marquisette with matching turbins and their flowers are yellow and lavendar tulips.

Old Fashioned Bread

Although it's true I write to you in verse a bit delirious, I state the truth! I am, forsooth, statistically serious! Truth dosn't bend or "stretch," my friend. It is as strong as hickory. To boost, inflate, or over-state is advertising trickery. My prudent pen, describing, then, this famous bread I proffer you, is always backed by honest fact. No sham it stoops to offer you.

F'r instance, ma'am, 'twould be a sham if, just to make the grade with you, I stretched the fact with artful tact, and used the word, "Home-made" with you. The word "home-made" is, I'm afraid, mis-used with glib expedience, and oft describes the floury tribes of factory-made ingredients. I do not claim this loaf of fame is made at home—ridiculous! But claim I do it's baked for you within a shop meticulous. Naught but the best by trusted test can ever cross its portal ma'am. And that is why I'm proud to try to make this bread immortal, ma'am.

BIG BROWN EGGS

When the hen lays the egg that has brought her such fame, with a cluck of amazement she looks at the same. She swells up with pride till she's ready to burst, as the every egg that she laid were the first.

Well, dumb tho she be, she's deserving of praise for giving us mortals the treasure she lays: the egg is a marvelous treasure, indeed, packed with the elements all of us need.

Calcium, iron and phosphorous too are stored in this ivory package for you.

"The hen is a wonder!" I hear you exclaim.
"The world should reward her and honor her name!"

Bride's Silver—Who Gives It?

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me who should give the silver (knives, forks, spoons and so forth) for a wedding present—the girl's mother or the groom's mother, and with what initial should the silver be monogrammed? C. V.

There is no rule about whether the flat silverware is given by the bride's family or by the bridegroom's family, or even by someone else. Most often it is given by the bride's family, but if the bridegroom's family have a special wish to give the bride her silver and if they, by observation or questioning sense that this gift would be welcomed from them, they may properly talk it over with the bride and her family.

Formerly, it was the definite rule that all silver and linens should be marked with the bride's maiden initials. Today some brides still abide by this custom. Nowadays most brides feel that it is more practical and sensible to have their silver and linens marked with the initials of their future name. So, when Mary Elizabeth Smith becomes engaged to John Brown, it is she who must decide whether she will use the initials M. E. S. or M. S. B. Either form of marking is correct.

Bacon Proves Real Menu Builder

By MARTHA LEE

AT THE FIRST SIGN of spring, we begin to budget our time so that we may have extra moments for gardens, golf, and for just generally sniffing the warm air and posies. And one of the most active "mother's helpers" in planning spring and summer meals is bacon.

Bacon is selling at the most attractive prices that it has known for several years. The production of pork is much increased over the average of the last few years and the quality is high. It is wise to use lots of it at the good price level, not only for breakfast, but for spring supper and luncheon dishes and as an extender for other meats in the more elaborate dinner menu.

BACON COOKERY

Whether you prepare bacon for a hurried breakfast for 2, or a luncheon meat for 6 or 8, the general cookery is the same. It should be cooked slowly, watched carefully, and removed when it is just crisp, but not brittle. The fat which fries out should never be allowed to stand on the bacon and must never smoke or the bacon will taste burned. Bacon may be broiled, pan fried or baked with excellent results. Broiled bacon is truly superior in flavor and sure to be evenly cooked from end to end. Baking is recommended for cooking large quantities of bacon at one time.

BACON WITH SWEET POTATO PUFFS

1 lb. sliced bacon
5 slices pineapple
1 No. 2½ can sweet potatoes, or
3 cups mashed sweet potatoes
5 marshmallows

Mash canned or fresh cooked sweet potatoes with plenty of butter and milk to make them very fluffy. Pile on pineapple rings and top each with a marshmallow. Bake in 375 deg. F. oven until marshmallows brown and potatoes and pineapple are hot, about 20 minutes. Broil bacon, and serve with sweet potato puffs. Makes 5 servings.

BANANAS IN BLANKETS

5 whole bananas (not too ripe)
10 strips bacon

Peel bananas and wind 2 strips bacon around each, fastening ends with toothpicks. Bake in shallow pan in 400 deg. F. oven for 20 to 25 minutes, turning to evenly brown the bacon. Serve with buttered green vegetable and a green salad as supper or luncheon dish. Makes 5 servings.

NEW ENGLAND HOMINY AND BACON

6 strips bacon
2 tbsp. bacon fat
1 Bermuda onion, chopped (1¾ cups)
1 green pepper, chopped (¾ cup)
2 tbsp. flour
1 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
2 cups tomato juice
1 No. 2½ can hominy

Partially fry bacon to obtain 2 tablespoons bacon fat. Remove bacon, add chopped onion and green pepper. Saute 4 to 5 minutes, add flour, salt and sugar. Gradually stir in tomato juice and cook until thickened. Pour sauce over hominy in baking dish 8x8x12. Arrange slices of bacon on top in lattice fashion and bake in 425 deg. F. oven for 20 minutes.

BACON WIGGLE

6 slices bacon
4 hard cooked eggs
½ cup canned mushroom
1 tbsp. chopped onion
2 tbsp. green pepper
¾ cup flour
2 cups milk
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. white pepper

Cook eggs in water to cover for 20 minutes, peel and quarter. Fry bacon slowly until crisp. Remove to warm plate and cut into pieces. Add onion, pepper and mushrooms to bacon fat and cook over slow fire until onion is clear. Stir in flour, then add milk and stir until smooth and thickened. Season and add the bacon and eggs. Serve over toast, toasted English muffins, rice or fried noodles. Makes 4 servings.

Courtesy Tip

The word "stationery" should not be used for letter paper, since the term includes pens, pencils, erasers and so forth. For your writing paper use the word "writing paper" or, even better, "letter paper" or "note paper." You may like to make a distinction between the large size paper . . . referring to it as "letter paper" and "small size" paper . . . referring to it as "note paper."—MRS. REECKMAN.

'House Across the Bay' Delights at Loew's

As an escape from fearsome tidings of international affairs, "House Across the Bay," which opened yesterday in Loew's well-filled twin movie houses, can be recommended. The film is essentially a family affair, with hubby Walter Wanger as producer and Frau Joan Bennett as star in Myles Connelly's latest scenario.

It is good entertainment with an engaging cast working hard to novelize a too-familiar plot. Walter Pidgeon, who rarely disappoints movie fans, and Gladys George, now appearing on the New York stage again, are especially good.

Joan Bennett

About Miss Bennett one is not so sure. Joanie with the light blonde hair is now Hedy with the jet black wig and she has lost some of the peculiarly Bennett charm with the change. In the film, Joan sings, dances, but overlooks acting in her efforts to surpass the heady attraction of Hedy. Her screen husband, George Raft, still plays George Raft very well.

The story concerns the efforts of Brenda Bentley to remain faithfully married to a convicted gangster. With second love in the person of handsome engineer, Walter Pidgeon, arriving, customary complications set in. There is a novel ending.

For the feminine contingent of the audience, there is the additional pleasure of watching the envied Bennett appear in twenty different costumes, each one unconsciously applauded with a surge of sighs.

"Over the Moon," a London film starring Merle Oberon and Rex Harrison, is the other attraction. It is a good comedy from the pen of Robert E. Sherwood of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" fame, and is ably acted by the stars, aided by some excellent English character actors.

Miss Oberon's beauty suffers no set-back from the blues and reds of this technicolor.

GINGER ROGERS IN NEW HIT---MET'S 'TYPHOON' THRILLING

Glamour Missing On Keith Screen

By PEGGY DOYLE

Can it be that glamour is getting the bird in Hollywood?

First, there was Joan Crawford muddling through "Strange Cargo" sans makeup or frou-frou. And now comes that box office pet, Ginger Rogers, in "Primrose Path," her face as clean and shining as a bear's Soap baby.

There the comparison ends. In the current Keith-Memorial attraction the erstwhile glamorous dancing partner of Freddy Astaire is revealed as a serious young actress possessed of unsuspected dramatic depth, who can get along very nicely without the lily-painting services of the Westmores and the Adrians.

In "Primrose Path," a Gregory La Cava masterpiece so startlingly uncompromising you wonder how it ever escaped the unkind cuts of the Hays office, the screen's finest lady-hoofer is seen as little Ellie May Adams—from the wrong side of the tracks, but whose heart is all right.

Ellie May's father is a Greek scholar who has exchanged his dreams for gin-bibbling and whose shame it is that his overblown, lively wife supports the family by the only means she knows how. It has made her and her family notorious. Not that Ellie May's old harridan of a grandmother minds, nor the overly knowing Honeybell, Ellie May's nine-year-old sister, who likes to recite "Don't Swat Your Mother, Boys, It's Mean."

It is only Ellie May who suffers secretly when she is greeted with ribald jeering as she goes through the town. Outwardly, she is tough as a dead-ender and talks like one.

And then she meets nice Ed Wallace, strapping, young proprietor of a hamburger stand. He carelessly kisses her—her "first kiss from a boy"—and she makes the disturbing discovery that she loves him. She invents a nice, respectable family for herself because she can't tell him the shameful truth.

But when her mother, the notorious Mamie Adams, makes a scene at the neighboring filling-station, Ellie May decides to be honest with her husband. She takes him to visit them and everything goes wrong.

Likewise, it is a triumph for Miss Rogers, whose Ellie May is as tough as she's tender. Joel McCrea is excellent as Ed, although this is definitely a Ginger-starring picture, and after her a Marjorie Rambeau walkaway. Miss Rambeau's Mamie Adams is the best thumbnail sketch of a good bad-woman in seasons. Henry Travers' matchmaking, jovial Gramp and Joan Carroll's naughty little Honeybell are other orchid-raters.

Three Plays To End Runs

Tomorrow evening will mark the final performances for the three Boston stage shows, "Keep Off the Grass," "Springtime for Henry" and "The Hands of the Clock."

Edward Everett Horton in the sta in "Springtime for Henry."

In the "Hands of the Clock," Sam Allgood is the star.

"Keep Off the Grass" has Jimmy Durante, Ray Bolger, Jane Froman and Ilka Chase as its stars.

Dorothy Lamour, Preston Emerge With New Laurels

By PEGGY DOYLE

Those two strong-glorifiers, Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston, not only live through the most devastating typhoon ever burst from a Hollywood typhoon maker, in "Typhoon" they emerge handbag perfect in appearance at the Metropolitan.

Left stranded on a uninhabited island for years since Dotty Lamour was a little girl of 10, the ingenious Dotty is next seen a decade later living comfortably even luxuriously in a free-penthouse on a diet of fresh fish and coconut milk. She is wearing a colorful and airy tea-length patterned lava-lava (an air-conditioned sarong to you) and has others for every day in the week.

It's a suggestion for some of you hard-working career girls. She toils not, leaving all that sort of thing to a female chimpanzee she had caught, named Koko, and trained as a maid of all work.

And her luck doesn't end there, by all the rules, she'd die an old maid because how is she to follow Miss Fairfax's advice and join a church organization, a tap-dancing class or any other beau-catching group, as Miss Fairfax advises all lone girls who don't like their present design of living?

And yet, away off there where even a Fuller brush man would be welcome, it is her good luck to find handsome Bob Preston a victim of heat prostration just a hoot and a holler from her improvised lift.

You can deduce that everything happens to them and, as the old County Cork saying goes, what falls on them falls on Dotty—including the climactic typhoon, a raging jungle fire, the wrecking of the boat that was to transport them back to civilization. But through it all, Dotty and Bob contrive to look as beautifully groomed as that fugitive from Esquire, Jimmy Durante, doesn't—and their reward is a happy-ever after finale in a blazing technicolor sunset.

The second feature, "Opened by Mistake," is a comedy romance featuring Charlie Ruggles, Janice Logan and William Frawley.

That's What You Think!

CLYDE SPRAGUE stopped the reaper and started toward the road as he heard the screams of the sirens. He saw two cars, heavily loaded with men carrying rifles, tear crazily along, traveling northward, and with the memory of the wail of the prison alarm still echoing in his mind he knew that the two escaped prisoners must have been seen heading that way.

Wanted!

By Charles McGuirk

He sat there on the high seat in the midst of his golden wheat, a tall, spare man with a tight mouth and haunted gray eyes. His mouth was dry now and the sweat on his forehead and neck was cold, although it was one of the hottest days of that hot July. He looked quickly about him, automatically placing the men of his crew so that he would know just how to evade them when he started to run. He pulled his thoughts up with a jerk. He did not, he reminded himself, have to do any running. Nobody knew.

With a last look up the road along which the automobiles had roared, he started the thresher again. The crew, whose members had been watching with him, swung into its collective work and the golden sea bowed under the seeking knives. The wheat lay stricken on the ground for an instant until metal hands swept it upright into stacks and twisted withes around it. And now, instead of a sea, it was an army of yellow soldiers standing all arow in the light of the hot sun.

The sun was westering and low. The day was behind them. The sea of wheat had dwindled into a mere lake, a pond. Two more hours and there would be no sea but there would be an army of stacked grain standing at attention, waiting to be loaded for the threshing.

Clyde and the crew would move into a neighbor's field. The crew would be composed of other men but Clyde would govern the reaper because it was his. His! It was only a part of what he had bought and won by hard labor and the sweat of his body. Driving the reaper, watching every movement of his crew to save time and finish the task, he enumerated his possessions. Hester, his wife. Young Clyde, his 8-year-old son. Marion, his flaxen-haired little daughter, two years younger than young Clyde. The farm. The house, the barns, the 20 head of Holstein cattle. The prize bull. The five horses. The 320 acres of land in cultivation in wheat and corn. The 15 pigs. The— But he couldn't keep from his mind the other, the sinister thought which clamored for recognition.

A HUNTED MAN

All these possessions were in jeopardy. He was a man working the land for somebody else. His wife and his children might be widowed and half-orphaned at any moment. This blue sky and this hot, fertile land could be taken away from him. He could be penned in a cell for at least the year he still owed the State. He, Clyde Sprague really Clyde Burgess was Wanted.

He owed the state a year because he had served four of a five-year sentence as accessory in the murder of Mike Nardello, the head of a thriving ring of bootleggers who had been knocked off in one of those incredible years of prohibition, the year 1924. He had been lucky. If justice had been served, Clyde Burgess, would be lying in Potter's Field today after execution because it was he who had poured lead into Mike Nardello as the gangster reached under his coat for his gun.

Even today, Clyde felt no penitence for the killing. It was either Mike or him. He had been the boss of a mob that moved liquor from Canada into Chicago. He had been on one of the trucks the night Mike and his mob had tried to high-jack his fleet. In the gun fight that followed, Mike and two of his mob and Johnny Hague and Pete Scarbello of his own gang, lay dead.

Clyde had shovelled thirty thousand dollars into the hungry hands of crooked politicians to kill that rap. But the heat had been turned on too heavily. The "fix" could not be perfected. He and Jim Sims and Harry Bolen and Dick Dimaro had been brought to trial. Dick and Harry had beaten the case by providing iron-clad alibis. He and Jim had drawn five years apiece as accessories. No principal was ever named. That much the fix had done. He realized now, driving the reaper with his gray eyes watching the field and the eyes of his mind looking back into the past, that the community's feeling that Mike had been a gangster well killed was the reason he and Jim had gotten away so lightly.

They came to the end of the last swathing and the men moved back toward the farm house, their day's work completed. Clyde turned the reaper and drove it slowly across the stubble field to the barn. When he got there, the smell of cattle came out to him and when he went in, the herdsmen were already at the milking. He moved over to the section where the horses were stalled and saw that the five beasts were pawing and stamping for their feed. He moved toward the oat-bins and, on a sudden impulse, climbed the ladder into the haymow. He would throw down their hay.

"PUT THAT AWAY!"

As he climbed onto the floor, he felt the presence of something sinister and frightened. He knew immediately that a fugitive crouched there. His eyes swept the mow. There was no sign of occupancy until his glance caught a very faint furrow over near the side wall. He glanced quickly down through the aperture to the barn below. Nobody was there. He stepped over to the furrow and through lips that did not move, he said, "Come out. Don't be afraid. Come on." The hay moved after a long minute and a boy emerged. He wore prison clothes. His hand held a gun. His eyes were desperate. "Reach," he said.

"Put that away," Clyde growled, "Do you think that if I wanted to turn you in, I'd take any chances? I'd have had you covered, or I would have shot into the hay until you were riddled. Have you eaten?"

"No," the boy said. His gun's muzzle stared at the floor.

"Stay here," Clyde ordered. "I'll be back in about two hours with food and clothes. The barn will be empty then."

"If you cross me—" the boy snarled.

The Principal Character In "Wanted"

CLYDE BURGESS, an escaped convict with a year yet to serve.

He buys a farm, marries and prospers, but he is not happy.

It is a guilty conscience.

"Put that away," Clyde growled. "Do you think that if I wanted to turn you in, I'd take any chances?"

"If I cross you what?" Clyde stared at him. "And if you shoot me what? Don't be a darn fool." His eyes appraised the fugitive. "You're lucky you're about my size. Don't want to go back, do you?"

"No!" The gun came up again to cover him.

"I didn't think you would," Clyde agreed. "You might some day. But that's your problem. Get back in the hay there. I'll be back."

He climbed down the ladder and walked toward the house thinking, "That boy is another me twelve years ago. I don't know how he got out, but he did. I slid into a laundry roller and was wheeled out with the wash. I'm doing wrong under the law to harbor him and to help him escape. But I'm giving him the chance because luck gave me a chance."

He stopped at the barn door and looked about him. There was activity about him but it was restful. The whole farm looked secure. It was secure. He was the only thing on it that wasn't. He thought back over the years. When he had shaken off the hue-and-cry after his escape, he had gone straight to a cache in a vacant field which he had planted against just such an emergency as this.

He had dug into the ground and unearthed the $10,000 he had buried. With it in his new suit, he had moved down into Indiana. As far away from Chicago as possible he had come upon this farm and worked on it for a year. During that time, the relentless search for him went on. Whenever he went to the postoffice, he saw his picture, his rogues' gallery picture, pasted up among the wanted criminals. He smiled. He had never made any attempt at disguising beyond changing his last name. Yet nobody had ever recognized him. And as time went, on, the throw-away containing his picture was buried beneath a hundred later ones.

He had worked as a laborer for two years. He had met Hester on her father's farm at harvest time and the look he saw in her eyes convinced him she was his woman. He had married her after a year's courtship and he had bought this farm for a song in 1932 in the very depths of the depression.

AN UNPAID DEBT

He would, he realized now, have been thoroughly happy, if the year of his uncompleted sentence had not hung over him. But it had, taunting every act of his life with fear and foreboding. He had not told Hester that he was an escaped criminal until a month ago. Then, a posse had come to the house searching for a murderer who had escaped. Sight of them raised the hair at the nape of his neck. It was then he realized that he must some day, go back and complete his debt to the state.

When he told Hester, however, she refused to allow him to go. She said his children and she would be disgraced. He offered to divorce her, to give her all the money he had. She told him indignantly she did not want his money. But neither did she want him away from her. He had given in, he knew, for a little time. The time, he was afraid now, was upon him.

He went into the kitchen and found Hester, buxom and deeply loving. Something in his look brought her tense with a boiling spoon in her hand.

"One of those convicts is in the haymow," he told her.

She whitened and the spoon fell to the floor. "What are you going to do?" she asked breathlessly.

"I'm going to give him clothes and food and a stake," he told her. "He's only a kid. Maybe he'll make it like I did. Then, I'm going to put him in my car and drive him into town and to the railroad station and put him on the train. Then, Hester, I'm going to drive over to the penitentiary and give myself up."

"No!" she said.

"I'll be out in a year with everything paid up," he told her. "Now don't argue. That's final."

Darkness had fallen when he walked up the ladder into the mow with the clothes and food hanging from his neck. The boy slithered out of his hiding-place and glowered at him uncertainly. Clyde watched while he dressed and ate. He handed him fifty dollars in bills and told him what the program was. The boy nodded and was silent. Together, they climbed down the ladder and got in the car. Clyde bought a ticket west for Denver.

"You're a swell pal," the boy said. "I don't know why you're doing this, but you're swell."

"O. K.," Clyde said. "Don't stick your neck out and try to go straight. But I ain't trying to tell you anything."

When the train pulled out he drove five blocks to a prison and asked for the warden.

"I'm Clyde Burgess," he told him. "I'm wanted since 1928. I escaped from Joliet with a year of a five-year stretch to do."

"Swell!" the warden said. "You can do a year standing on your head. Come on in."

Clyde walked through the door. He felt freer than he had felt in nearly 12 years.

Unkle Eph Due Here Tomorrow

Unkle Ephe and all the folks from Smugginsville are a'comin' to Boston tomorrow to make their 27th semi-annual visit to the "stoar"—Raymond's, of course—on Washington st., it was announced today.

The delegation will wind up its parade from Smugginsville in front of Raymond's at 8:30 a. m. and the band will finish up proceedings by a concert; then at 9 a. m. the store doors will open for a special sale in celebration of Unkle Eph's visit.

Others who come to Raymond's on this banner day will be Aunt Mary, Si and Mrs. Tooler, Lish Smuggins and his wife, Bat O'Connor and the portly Mrs. Bascom, 315 pounds, all of whom are familiar to the many thousands who join Raymond's, semi-annual celebration.

UNCLE EPH'S HERE—Yep, you guessed it, it's none other than Unkle Eph and Aunt Mary pictured on their arrival in town today. They came in from Smugginsville at 8:30 a. m., and Raymond's is having a big sale in their honor. In the party are Si and Mrs. Tooler, Lish Smuggins and wife, Bat O'Connor, and the 315-pound Mrs. Bascom. This is their 27th semi-annual visit to Raymond's stoars.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

CHARLEY McLENNAN was standing in front of the Administration Building at Suffolk Downs talking with Frank Ryan and several horsemen.

I congratulated Charley on his recent marriage to Mary Hirsh, one of the few women trainers of horses. The young man who is paid $65,000 a year to act as racing secretary at Suffolk Downs, Hialeah Park, Pimlico, Havre de Grace, Keeneland and Washington Park smiled happily.

McLennan looked over at the street where vans were coming to the track with horses. From a railroad sliding across the thoroughfare other horses were being unloaded.

Charles McLennan

"We shall have 1000 horses on the grounds by Monday morning," said McLennan. "I think the grade of horses will be better than we had at Suffolk Downs a year ago. For the first two weeks I have written my book for the better thoroughbreds. If they keep coming, it will not be necessary for me to write many races for cheaper horses."

I asked McLennan if Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimelech would race at Suffolk Downs.

"Bimelech has been nominated for the $15,000 added Yankee Handicap that will be run at Suffolk Downs on July 4," replied McLennan. "It all depends on what Bimelech does between now and then as to whether Bimelech will be a starter. If Bimelech should win two more races, I might have to give him 130 pounds in the Yankee. It is a question whether Col. Bradley would permit Bimelech to run in a $15,000 race if he had to carry that much weight."

I asked McLennan if he thought Bimelech was as good a horse as War Admiral was when at his best

"I think Bimelech is the best three-year-old we have had for several years," replied McLennan. "He proved in the Preakness that he is a better horse than Gallahadion and Dit. I thought Dit ran a miserable race in the Preakness.

"If it had come up mud in the Preakness, Bimelech would not have been a starter. Trainer Bill Hurley has always been adverse to permitting his horses to start in mud. Some of the Bradley horses when sold to other owners have proved they were good mudders.

"Last Friday Hurley told me he would scratch Bimelech if the track was bad. I conveyed this information to Alfred Vanderbilt, and we both waited impatiently for Saturday morning. The track was fast, and so Bimelech ran."

SOX LEFTY TRIO THRIVE ON STARBOARD HURLING

By JOE CASHMAN

ST. LOUIS, May 17—LeFinney, Roger Cramer and Teddy Williams being the Red Sox three leading hitters and each being a left-handed sticker, it is strange indeed that Joe Cronin's league leaders haven't seen more southpaw pitching this spring.

"AND DRINK LOTS OF MILK"—Gabby Hartnett, six foot, one-inch manager of Cubs, gives five foot, six-inch Dominic Dallessandro prescription for growing into man's estate. But the little fellow was big enough to lead Pacific Coast League in batting last year, and big enough to win regular post in Cubs outfield. He used to be with Red Sox.

These first three swingers in the Boston batting order have been carrying the offensive load for the Yawkey A. C. almost since the bell rang.

In the opener against the Browns yesterday for example, the trio contributed six blows, including a home run and a triple to a 14-hit attack which gave the Hose a 7 to 5 victory and increased their advantage over the idle second place Cleveland Indians to three full games.

TRIO DOMINATE HOG SHOW

And on that occasion Messrs. Finney, Cramer and Williams were having an off day, so to speak, in the past ten games these three portside pummelers have been responsible for 49 of a total of 102 Boston blows.

All of which means that the top third of the batting array fashioned approximately one-half of the total bingles, and their bombardment included two home runs, four triples and seven doubles.

Yet, with the Sox power so predominantly left-handed, only one southpaw has been started against the club to date if our memory doesn't fail us.

RUSSO DID WELL

The one exception was Marius Russo of the Yanks, who opened the second game of the series in New York last week and, except for a home run ball served to Finney, he pitched shutout ball un-

Austen Lake to Tell Canada's War Story

Austen Lake, ace columnist and feature writer of the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser, is in Ottawa today to find out what Canada is doing to prepare for war.

Lake, a World War veteran, saw active service in France with the American army. He understands the feelings and the hopes of service men.

During his newspaper career, Lake has had an opportunity to watch the wheels of government turn. His articles from Canada will tell the real story of how the Dominion faces the war.

Bees, Buccs Open Battle For N. L. Cellar at Hive

By SAM COHEN

Frankie Frisch, an adopted son of Boston and first cousin to the 1940 Bees, returns here today in his latest role as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates and caretaker of the biggest headache in the National League.

Frisch, far from the gentle personality that entertained so many baseball listeners over the air here a year ago, returns bent upon unhinging the Bees, who right now are the victims of six straight defeats, to become co-holder of last place in the N. L. race with the Bucs.

LAST OF McGRAW'S DISCIPLES

The last of the two-fisted disciples of the late John McGraw, Frisch's method of managing has exploded right into his face instead of giving the Pirates the punch they were supposed to be so sadly in need of.

All efforts of Fordham Frank to blitzkrieg the National League have flopped. The trouble originates in the Pirates clubhouse where Frankie is having the toughest time of his life, even tougher than the time he had trying to

Sarazen Shatters Own Record to Tie For Goodall Lead

By BILL GRIMES

FLUSHING, N. Y., May 17—When the second round of the third annual Goodall round robin started this morning at the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Jimmy Thomson, the long-hitting Scot from Chicopee, Mass., and Gene Sarazen, the gentleman farmer from Connecticut, were leading the field with eight points.

Clayton Heafner, from the tobacco belt of North Carolina, held in third place by a slight margin of one point.

SARAZEN SHATTERS RECORD

Gene Sarazen, who was just as rough on Henry Picard, the Candy Kid from Hershey, and Martin Pose, the Argentine, as Thomson was on his opponents, broke his own back nine fresh Meadow record by one stroke by carding a 31.

Gene got off to a poor start and he was three down to Picard and one to Pose at the turn, but the pace that he set coming home wiped out both deficits, and when he holed out for his five birdie and his seventh three for the inward nine on the 18th green, he was four up on both Picard and Pose.

HEAFNER STARTS FAST

Clayton Heafner started off at a clip which threatened to sink Horton Smith and Dick Metz without a trace but he lost enough of his touch coming home to be only three up on Smith and four up on Metz.

Paul Runyan and Ben Hogan, who are plus four, Sam Snead with three plus and Byron Nelson, who is plus one, were the only other contenders winding up the first round on the right side of the ledger.

But, in Goodall round robin tournaments, about everything can and does happen, so it is possible for the first round leaders to be well back in the field at the conclusion of today's two engagements.

Second Round Matches

Hines vs. Picard vs. Snead.
Thomson vs. Nelson vs. Metz.
Demaret vs. Sarazen vs. Runyan.
Wood vs. Fogan vs. Heafner.
Pose vs. Little vs. Smith.

ANGEL GIVES CRUSHER CASEY RETURN MATCH

The Angel, unable to get Steve Casey to surrender the $10,000 diamond championship belt, signed to give the Irishman a crack at his recently acquired title in a finish bout that will be staged by Paul Bowser at the Garden on May 27.

One of the conditions of the contract calls for Casey to turn over the championship belt to a reliable person 24 hours before the match. The belt will then be given to the victor of the Garden go.

Casey represented himself at the signing of the contracts, while Karl Pojello acted for The Angel.

It was Gus Sonnenberg's decision that gave The Angel the title. The old Dynamiter disqualified Casey when he knocked him over.

TWIXT TEE AND CUP

By BILL GRIMES

FLUSHING, N. Y., May 17—Gene Sarazen may have lost the old urge to win but he's still one of the greatest shotmakers in the game . . . Fred Corcoran is beginning to show the effects of his job, which is one of the most nerve-shattering tasks anyone ever tackled . . . He'd better rest up or else.

Byron Nelson will not be able to defend his Massachusetts open title . . . He is on a new job at Inverness, out in Toledo, O., and cannot get the time off to play at Oyster Harbors . . . However, Jimmy Thomson, Horton Smith and Lawson Little are trying to arrange to be at Oyster Harbors for the Bay State open.

Ben Hogan, the 140-pound Texan, who really powders golf balls, must have figured that he was in the Lone Star State . . . He wore a white Palm Beach suit to Fresh Meadow for the first day, which was very cold and threatening . . . Hogan spends more time on practice tees than any of the pros.

PLAYERS' WIVES GUESTS

The wives of the contestants are guests of the Goodall Co. . . . Elmer Ward had more guests at the dinner and theater party that he threw for the players and the press than there were individuals in the first day's gallery.

Most of the Goodall field has entered the Metropolitan Open, which will be played next week at the Forest Field Club over in Bloomfield, N. J. . . . Paul Derringer, the Cincinnati pitcher, has donated a trophy for the annual baseball players' championship . . . Freddie Corcoran will not stage any more "Golf to Music" exhibitions . . . His innovation netted a So. Norwalk hospital $3000 last Sunday but it was only a gag for a most worthy cause.

Freddie believes that young Jimmy McHale, son of the old-time Red Sox center fielder, who is now assistant to Big Ed Dudley down in Philly has a chance to be an outstanding pro golfer . . . Jimmy, Sr., was a fixture with the Red Sox until a young Texan named Tris Speaker knocked him out of his job.

CRAVEN IN PERIL

Col Jim Campbell, ex-president of the Goodall Co., will have a bone to pick with Frank Craven unless he gets as much distance and accuracy out of the golf clubs "Nick" sold him last week as the Goodall contestants get with their bats.

Although a great many golf pros are trying to make both ends meet, the wives of the Goodall stars have gone in for silver fox capes . . . So the cold weather was a break for them . . . Jimmy Hines and Paul Runyan are the only New York pros in the Goodall.

Jimmy Demaret insists that he's still playing from Houston and not Ft. Worth, Tex., as was reported by a news service . . . Demaret is one of the most regular fellows in golf . . . there's not the slightest sign of temperament in Jimmy's makeup and he's generous to a fault . . . With the U. S. open title in his possession, Jimmy Demaret would make a fortune . . . (and in all probability give it away).

NICHOLSON GAME

If he's going down, Frank Nicholson will be fighting . . . Despite the weather, cold and threatening, he wore a Palm Beach suit . . . Fairways at Fresh Meadow are very narrow . . . If they were bounded by trees, like South Shore the mental hazard would be so overbearing that even the Goodall sharpshooters would have trouble with drives, long woods and long iron shots.

gardens in front of the entrance to the track. There were patches of yellow and blue pansies.

The stands have been touched up some with new paint, while 40 men were working on the track.

"There was six feet of frost at the track," said Stevens, "and it was necessary to do a great deal of work to get it into such fine condition."

Back of the clubhouse the grass was green and the turf soft. In the infield, the grass looked almost as good as some I saw in Kentucky.

Harry Hayes pointed out a flock of ducks that were swimming in the lagoon.

I told Harry he should have imported some pink flamingos from Cuba.

With Frank Ryan, I rode through the stable area. The Dixiana Stable looked as spotless as the quarters of this famous racing stable at Lexington, Ky.

A large reservation has been made for Weston W. Adams' horses. A few of them have already arrived at the East Boston track. During the recent Narragansett Park meeting, the Adams stable has been very successful. Trainer E. E. Russell promises to continue his successes at Suffolk Downs.

R. A. Coward, owner of a stable of horses, passed our car. The Coward horses are on the way to Suffolk Downs. Coward has been successful in coming up with many winners in stake races in New England.

U-Boat, Be Jabbers and other Coward thoroughbreds will be seen in action.

Battle Jack Has Recovered

RYAN TOLD ME that Battle Jack, a sensational performer at Maryland tracks, has been entered for the Plymouth Rock Handicap on June 8.

"Battle Jack almost died from lockjaw at Suffolk Downs last summer," Charley McLennan later told me. "While exercising in the stable area the horse stepped on a nail. Battle Jack has staged a wonderful comeback, and is today one of the best sprinters in the country."

Charles F. Adams, president of Suffolk Downs, is directing the many details in connection with Monday's opening. Adams, Bruce Wetmore, the late Joe Tomasello and other persons who were interested in racing invested $2,500,000 in the erection of Suffolk Downs. I felt they did considerable gambling with their money, but they clicked with a winner.

How does the Yeast know where to go?

The yeast in our Ale comes to the top of the vat (beer yeast works its way to the bottom). That's because we use special Ale yeast for "top" fermentation —the authentic way to brew Ale.

We know you want an Ale that's as smooth as moonlight on a calm lake in summer. Here it is.

Grandpa's Old Trout Paradise Keeps Frying Pan Still Full

By DARK MONTREAL

The bait man at Massabesic Lake, N. H., must be in his 60's. But he's wiry and limber. He squatted on his heels and drew a neat diagram in the hard-packed earth of his barn driveway.

"You turn to the right off the Raymond highway," he said. "Then after you pass the blacksmith shop, you take the dirt road to the left.

"Now here's the bridge. Here's an old wood road. It's grown up some, but you can follow it.

"You walk in there and it'll cut you back on the brook higher up. My dad and me fished that trout stream when I wasn't knee high to a mudworm.

"You work up stream through the woods until you come to the little hidden meadow. There's some big ones in there. And good luck to you, young feller. My pop and your grandpa used to sit together many a day right on the sunny side of this here barn, swapping fishing lies while I dug worms and chased grasshoppers for 'em."

It was like he said, except for the big ones. A man could take his limit of eight and nine-inchers if he wanted to. But this time, half a dozen were enough.

And ten minutes after the last of them was out of water, they were cleaned and ready for the pan.

The bright little fire in the hidden meadow was small and safe enough so no game warden with boss sense could have the heart to scold about lack of a camper's permit.

And the pork scraps sizzled and the trout browned and there were thickly buttered slices of home baked New Hampshire bread to eat with them.

A man could spend well filled and watch the little fluffy clouds float across a sky so blue the memory of it would follow him to the city's grime and smoke.

Sitting in that hidden meadow, a 1940 angler could turn the years back. The same brook had babbled there when the Montreal-Boston stage coaches rumbled and clattered where today's motor traffic rolls unendingly.

This had been farm land when the bait man's dad and the visiting fisherman's grandpa had been barefoot boys together. Now the farms were abandoned and grown up to birch and juniper.

But the trout remained. And a mother partridge quitted in a thicket. And red-winged black birds swooped so near their vivid markings made a gay note of color in the picture.

A man gets it all for nothing when he goes a-fishing. And thinking back to the smell of trout frying over an outdoor fire is good for a city guy's between week-ends appetite.

Joe Devereaux of Somerville is a salt water angler who scoffs at the accepted practices of the sport.

He claims you can wear your Sunday suit and best hat and street shoes on a fishing boat and catch just as much as the ginks all togged out in boots and oilskins.

He didn't even bother to bring a line of his own, aboard the T wharf schooner Corkum this week. So one of the rod and reel regulars lent him a hand rig.

And Joe promptly hauled up a 13¼-pound cod that won the day's prize money of $37.

Les Varney of Milan, N. H., writes Mark McIntyre that fishing is brisk at Little Millsfield Pond. It's a four-mile hike through the woods to get there, McIntyre says. But the inaccessibility of the spot pa, s full creel dividends.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Raymond of Boston, Ray Bartlett of Winchendon and Walter Wilson of Lowell were among Bay Staters who had good fishing luck this week at Kezar Lake, Me.

Using an Edson Dark fly, Wilson tok three good salmon averaging three pounds each. Then he tried a smelt as bait and took three more fish almost exact matches of the first three.

* * *

The East Longmeadow Rod and Gun Club's grounds will be the scene of the Massachusetts Skeet Shooting Association's Connecticut Valley championship matches Sunday.

Secretary G. N. Davidson reminds Massachusetts contestants that they must show national and Massachusetts registration cards. The cards may be obtained at the shoot by any properly qualified shooters.

* * *

Acting Fish and Game Commissioner Phil Morris of New Hampshire sends word fast fishing has been reported at Lake Squam, Winnipesaukee and Winnisquam

Earl Graffam of Haverhill, Mass., and Fred Begole of Boston were among the lucky anglers at Squam.

John Moore of Roslindale, Glenn Marstie of Lynn, Georgi Dione of Haverhill, John Malcolm of Everett and D. M. Bistick of Lexington got their limit of trout at Connor Pond at Ossipee, N. H.

1914 Sox Hurlers Best of All Times

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17 (AP)—In the heydey of Babe Ruth's career, when the mighty man was slugging baseballs out of every lot, he faced a pitcher who told him: "You'll never hit a homer off me." The prediction held true.

Sixteen years after his retirement, Hubert B. "Dutch" Leonard discloses how he was able to scale the biggest gun of all down to average size.

"Dutch" played six years with Ruth on the Boston Red Sox. He gained valuable knowledge on how and how not to pitch to the master swatsmith. The "Babe" became a New York Yankee in 1920. Leonard closed out a 12-year big league stay in 1924, his last two seasons with Detroit.

DUSTED BABE

Leonard, a moody fellow who left-handed himself into the Hall of Fame, never threw Ruth a ball decent enough to be on speaking terms with home plate. Almost every one shaved fuzz off the big roan's uniform. Ruth knew what was going on because he had been warned in advance, but he couldn't do a thing about it except swing and grunt.

Otherwise he hit 729 circuit blows in 21 years.

In 1914 "Dutch" set his present American League record of allowing the fewest earned runs, an average of 1.01 for 222 innings. In the majors it is second only to the record of Ferdie Schupp, another left hander, who compiled a .99 average for 141 innings in 1916 with the Giants.

Leonard rates the Red Sox pitching staff of his time as the best ever assembled by one club. It included Carl Mays, Sam Jones, Ernie Shore, Ruth and Leonard. Shore hurled a 1-0 no-hitter against Washington in 1917. Not a man reached first. Leonard shut out St. Louis without a bingle in 1916. Ruth blanked Chicago 1-0 in the 1918 World Series.

GROWS GRAPES

Leonard lives today in somewhat isolated grandeur, master of a rambling hacienda squatting in the center of 1,000 acres of grape land near Fresno. At 48, he is affluent, affable but still aloof. His grapes hang trimmed bunches of hothead tural wit, go to the specialty trade in New York.

His hobby is collecting phonograph records. In the library are 15,000, mostly classical music, valued at $10,000. It is the third collection he has started since college days.

Arena Nearly Ready For Water Follies

This coming week-end will find aquatic stars from all corners of the earth converging here for the fifth edition of the Water Follies which will open a long 14-week stay at Revere Beach a week from Thursday night in a new sports arena which is being constructed for this spectac'e alone.

The arena will be completed by the end of the next week and a week from Monday a 3-day period of 14-hour rehearsals daily get under way to whip the show into perfect alignment.

Coley Welch Loses Decision To Howell King

By JACK CONWAY

Howell King of Springfield, flashing a powerful left hook, won a unanimous decision over Coley Welch of Portland in a stirring ten-round bout before 3000 fans at an Argonne A. A. show in Mechanics Building.

Welch, a boxing stylist who likes to walk at an opponent shooting straight punches, tired in the last three sessions. Up to the eighth session Welch was holding his own with King.

WELCH TIRES

King was quick to sense Welch was tiring, and put on the steam in the eighth session to pile up a big lead. This put him out front, and he was never headed.

Welch did most of his effective scrapping at close quarters. When in close, Welch drove short, sharp right hand punches to head and body with crushing effect.

King is a shifty, cagey boxer, and when possible he kept at long range. This gave Howell a better oportunity to count with his sweeping left hooks to the head.

Eddie Bradley was referee, and he handled the boxers well. Billy McKenimen and Jim Shaunnessey acted as judges.

JOHNSON STOPS BOUT

Jack Johnson, former world's heavyweight champion, refereed the bout between Bill Weinberg of Chelsea and Al Bouchard of Kingston. Bouchard suffered a bad cut over one of his eyes in the third round, and Johnson acted wisely in stopping the tussle and awarding the duke to Weinberg. The latter, a graduate of the All-America tourney, continues to improve with each bout.

Irish Micky Canty, 146½, Springfield, defeated Tony Gouvica, 148, Brockton, in four rounds.

RACES AT FALL RIVER

Midget auto racing starts its 1940 outdoor season in New England tonight when a full field of 25 cars invades Fall River Stadium, Fall River, at 8:30, for the first in the summer series of weekly meets. This is the second year of midget racing in Fall River.

Sox Lefty Trio Thriving on Diet Of Right Handers

til an error paved the way for his retirement in the seventh.

The Hose got another of their infrequent peeks at a left-hander yesterday, but fortunately this didn't happen until they had slapped back the ears of a right-hander named Vernon Kennedy in a six-run third inning.

Before Vernon could get anybody out in the frame, Lou Finney homered for the second of four hits he collected in the game. Doc Cramer tripled and Kid Williams and Jimmy Foxx singled.

CHECKED BY LEFTY

Then entered the diminutive Emil Lefty Bildilli. Before he was properly warmed up the little portsider was touched for a single by Joe Cronin and a double by Bobby Doerr.

Thereafter, though, the only mistake Emil made, ere being removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth, was to serve up a seventh-inning pitch which Jimmy Foxx whacked out of the orchard for his ninth homer of the year and third in the last two playing days.

It might have been a sad [illegible] noon for the Sox if Bildilli had started. For the bothersome Brownies combed Denny Galehouse for ten blows to chase him at the close of the fifth frame and gave Herbie Hash, relieving brilliantly once more, not a few anxious moments.

HARRIS JOINS TRIO

All the same, while today will find a fourth left-handed hitter in the Fenway lineup in the person of Mickey Harris, the Browns are to pitch Bob Harris, a right-hander.

Sooner or later, rival managers are bound to begin testing the Sox on a left-handed pitching diet but by that time it may be too late to cause our heroes any harm.

Capt. Foxx has found the home-run range once more, Boss Cronin had his best day yet at bat yesterday, getting a double and two singles. Boby Doerr has been red hot out here in the West knocking in three runs with two doubles, yesterday, after lining out a triple, double and single in the lone Chicago game.

Talk with the other managers around the circuit and they'll tell you that regardless of who they pitch against the Sox or how well the latter sock, the Back Bay entry is doomed to hit the skid unless its own starting pitchers improve.

POINT TO MOUND WEAKNESS

They stress the fact that no Boston pitcher has lasted nine innings in almost two weeks and that in only five of the club's 24 games to date has a flinger gone the route.

They admit that Cronin has done a remarkable job in sensing the proper moment to shift hurlers, and in his selection of relief hurlers.

But they prefer to attribute this to luck rather than keen judgment on the skipper's part and insist that his luck in this respect is bound to run out before long.

Apparently they don't remember or want to forget that his luck, as they put it, didn't run out in '33 when he steered the Senators to a pennant. His strategic moves that year were referred to as hunches.

GETS FULL VALUE

But whether he's being lucky, playing hunches or being very smart, Joseph Edward Cronin is sure getting full value

NOON SPECIAL CLICKS FOR FIFTH STRAIGHT

Dave Wilson's Noon Phone Special, an exclusive feature of the Green Race Special of the Boston Evening American, won for the fifth day in a row at Narragansett Park yesterday. Multitude was the Wilson horse, and he returned $5.20 to his backers.

The other four winners were Tidy Whisk $8.90; Be Jabbers $4.10; Stephen Jay $5.50; Panalong $3.80.

The Wilson Noon Phone Special is the last word from the track just before the Green Race Special goes to press.

Wilson clicked with three winners in his regular graded handicaps yesterday, Miss Gallant, Four O Four and Multitude.

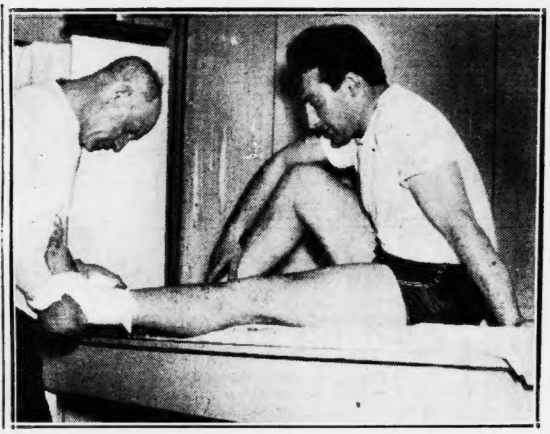
TUNED TO CONCERT PITCH FOR H. C.



"MUCH BETTER, FRANK"—Al Morro, who turned his ankle walking down the college steps Tuesday, has injured appendage taped by Trainer Frank Jones. Al may not be at best tomorrow, but he'll compete. And he'll score heavily, too, even on one leg.

FLYING MACS. It used to be Rand McNally and Ed McFarland who won hurdles titles for B. C. Now it's John MacNeil. He was double winner against Maine, and will be in the points against Purple.

DISCOBOLUS—Al Morro makes old Greek discus master look like minor leaguer when it comes to tossing the platter. Morro is New England A. A. U. champion in the event.

make the Gas House Gang at St. Louis see and think his way.

Frisch's great desire to tip over the Bees is the result of the recent western invasion of the Swarm in which the natives forced the Pirates' pilot to call on every ball player on his roster in three games in an effort to get the Bees out. The result was complete failure as the Stengeleers marched off with three straight decisions.

Casey Stengel has no fear of Frankie Frisch and his mighty right. In fact, the Bees boss will toss up Bill Posedel, ace of the local twirling staff, to greet Frisch and his Pirates tomorrow.

Stengel has no desire to share the cellar with Frisch, and would gladly give Frankie possession of the darkest corner in the N. L.

BEES MAKE LEE

The climax was reached yesterday when Big Bill Lee, who has failed to go the route for the Cubs in his last three starts, weathered a nine hit attack by the Bees to escape with a 5-4 decision as Chicago, swept a two-game series here.

Lee, who seemed destined to be knocked out of the box in the first inning of yesterday's encounter when the Bees collected four straight hits, settled down to take the decision from Lefty Joe Sullivan, who had much the better of the argument until Rip Russell kissed him for a home run in the seventh and the Cubs then teed off in the eighth to drive Sully to the showers.

BAD START FOR SULLY

Chicago might have never come close to that decision yesterday but for a bad inning in which Sullivan was touched for two runs, one of which was unearned.

The visitors started off when Billy Herman, second man up in the first inning, doubled to left and scored when Gleeson rifled a single in the same direction. Chet Ross tried to make a play at the plate on Herman, but he hit the Cubs' star on the back with the ball and Gleeson raced all the way to third as the agate flew toward the grandstand. Hank Lieber then scored Gleeson on a long fly.

In the Bees half of the first Rabbit Warstler, Bob Loane, Max West and Chet Ross rattled out four straight hits to score two runs and the Cubs debated whether or not to allow Lee to remain.

MATTICK SAVES LEE

They finally decided to let him stay in and Les Scarsella rolled out to Stan Hack, but Al Lopez rifled a shot to the left of Mattick, but Mattick made a diving stop of the ball and tossed Lopez out to save the day for Lee.

The Bees threatened again in the fifth when Warstler walked with two gone. Bob Loane doubled him to third and West was purposely passed. But Ross' best was a tap to the pitcher.

Meanwhile Sullivan was mowing the Cubs down with ease until Rip Russell stepped up in the seventh and kissed one over the left field fence to put the Cubs ahead.

Even then things looked bright for Sullivan opened the Bees half of the seventh with a double, but he never got a chance to tie the score for Sisti, Warstler and Loane went down on strikes.

Then came the fatal eighth. The Cubs, who had collected only three hits up to this point, picked up three more to seal the decision.

Bill Lee got the first safe hit of the inning; a double to left and moved to third on a single by Hack. Herman flied out to score Lee and then Gleeson pasted a triple to deep center to score Hack with what proved to be the winning run and sent Sullivan to the showers. Al Piechota come in to end the rally.

However, the Bees made a desperate bid to pull the game out in their half of the eighth when Max West opened with a double and scored ahead of Al Lopez who belted a home run, 350 feet long, over the left field fence.

5 GAMES IN PARK LEAGUE TONIGHT

All 10 clubs in the Boston Park League will be working tonight when five games are scheduled with first place in the East division of the circuit, which St. Alphonsus has held all week, up for the taking.

Roslindale Town Club will bid to displace the Mission Hillers when they inaugurate their Fallon Field home stand against St. Catherine's of Charlestown whom they edged last night at Barry Playground in Charlestown.

St. Alphonsus will continue the brother act when Joe McDermott will attempt to pick up where Brother Marty left off by a shutting out the Artesani Club of Brighton last night at Fens, when the Saints visit the Navy Yard at Charlestown.

At South Boston Stadium Bill Benson will attempt to make it two in a row over the Boston Hellenics whom his St. Augustine Club hammered last night at Brighton. Lefty Smith, who lost the season's opener to Casey Club, will start against Charley Kenney on the Hellenics hill.

Ray Coolidge will take his Carter's Clothes to the South End to vindicate Wednesday's defeat by Crosby Club at South Boston.
